

Study warns of 'grievous fuel shortages'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Calling on the administration to yield to gasoline rationing and sterner energy measures, a congressional study Friday warned Americans to brace for "The most grievous shortages ever experienced in this country."

The study, prepared by the Senate Interior Committee, said the oil shortage this winter will be far more severe than the administration anticipates — possibly as much as 5 million barrels a day — and threatens both the economy and the national security.

It called for strict gasoline rationing "at once," immediate regulations to further increase heating oil refining and other mandatory steps to increase energy savings.

The administration, meanwhile, showed no signs of yielding to pressure for immediate rationing. Following on the heels of estimates that rationing could not be imposed until March 1 at the earliest, Chairman Herbert L. Stein of the President's economic council indicated again Friday that he prefers to allow gasoline prices to increase.

"I think the American people who need gasoline badly would rather have high-priced gasoline and be able to go to the gasoline station and get it than have cheap gasoline and depend on the favors of their local ration board," Stein said.

The House Commerce Committee voted 24 to 13 to send to the floor the National Emergency Energy Act, which would give President Nixon broad powers to conserve the nation's energy supplies. Rationing is optional in both the House bill and a similar one passed earlier by the Senate.

In other energy related developments:

—President Nixon met for one hour and 45 minutes with five of his top economic strategists to continue assessing the impact of the energy crisis on the economy and its implications for federal spending and tax policies, particularly in the budget that will be proposed next month for the fiscal year beginning July 1. Sitting on the White House meeting were Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Budget Director Roy Ash, Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns, Chairman Herbert Stein of the Council of Economic Advisers and John Dunlop, executive director of the Cost of Living Council.

—The Association of American Railroads filed a statement with the Energy Policy Office urging that railroads should be allocated enough fuel to meet all their needs.

—The Agriculture Department reported that supplies of farm gasoline and diesel fuel remained tight this week, partly because most oil companies reportedly are still not following federal instructions.

'Give and take' for peace

Dayan: Israel flexible

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Friday his country was prepared to "bargain and deal and give and take" at the forthcoming Geneva conference with its Arab adversaries.

Dayan told newsmen after an hour-long meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, that it was too early to tell just how things would come out at the peace conference, expected to begin Dec. 18.

Dayan met a second time with Kissinger after lunch, then got into a black, police-escorted limousine to go to the Pentagon, where he met with Dep. Defense Secretary William Clements for 45 minutes.

The Pentagon refused to say what was discussed, but sources said Dayan gave an estimate of Israel's military supply needs and discussed the situation along the cease-fire lines.

Dayan then headed for Capitol Hill for talks with influential senators on the foreign relations and armed service committees. He was unable to meet with Defense Secretary James M. Schlesinger, who is not scheduled to return from a North Atlantic Treaty Organization conference until tonight.

Dayan has indicated that his hurry-up trip to Washington came as a result of a summons from

Ford says Nixon won't quit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon told Vice President Gerald R. Ford Friday that he will not resign and that he will be "completely exonerated" of any wrongdoing.

Nixon extended the assurances to Ford at a private, 45-minute meeting in the Oval Office on Ford's first full day as vice president.

"I can assure you the president has no intention whatsoever of resigning," Ford said at his first vice presidential news conference.

"I have heard it before and he reiterated it this morning," Ford added. "I personally don't think he should resign."

Ford said Nixon plans to make a full disclosure of his finances today — although he will not release his income tax returns — and then follow with statements on the ITT case and the milk fund contributions before the end of the year.

"He did assure me that he would be completely exonerated," Ford said. "There will be no fair charges of involvement."

The 60-year-old vice president, sworn into office to succeed Spiro T. Agnew Thursday, put in a hectic day, presiding part of the time over the Senate and shuttling between his offices in the Capitol.

To restore confidence in the presidency, Ford said Nixon should continue to travel around the country, hold press conferences, and continue meetings with small groups of congressmen.

"But the real thing that will swing the pendulum back to faith in the President is accomplishments," Ford said.

He added that if Nixon can negotiate a lasting peace in the Middle East, "there will be a groundswell of support."

Asked whether the House should end its fledgling inquiry into impeachment, Ford said "it is under way. I don't think anything can stop it."

But he added, "I have seen no evidence which would justify a favorable vote on impeachment."

He also rejected suggestions, many of them from his former colleagues, that Nixon would be a liability in the 1974 elections.

"The president is always an asset," Ford countered and added that Nixon has fashioned "an outstanding record" in foreign affairs and that there are more "pluses than minuses" on the domestic front.

"If I were a member of the House and he indicated he wanted to speak in my district, I'd be darned glad to have him."

The meeting with Nixon centered on Ford's duties, which will include membership on the National Security Council and the Domestic Council.

Ford said there are no plans, now, for him to travel abroad and that he planned to curtail his appearances in this country until Congress adjourns.

$20 billion power plan passes Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted unanimously Friday to commit the United States to a $20 billion energy research and development program to make the country self-sufficient within the next decade.

The bill, passed 82 to 0, would lay the groundwork for a sweeping government effort to explore and develop almost every conceivable energy resource the nation possesses.

Its aim would be to make America self-sufficient for all its energy needs by 1983.

The measure, which now goes to the House, would create an interim organization to begin financing new energy research programs until additional legislation to establish an energy research and development agency is passed by Congress.

The bill carries an authorization of $800 million annually to supplement existing federal energy development programs but commits the nation to a total federal budget of at least $2 billion a year.

Under its provisions, the interim group is directed to promptly submit to the Congress proposals for pilot projects to liquify and gasify coal, tap the nation's oil shale reserves, and develop geothermal resources.

Any project which costs in excess of $50 million would require additional approval from Congress.

Prior to its passage, the Senate spent over three hours debating an amendment by Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., to deregulate the price of natural gas.

Buckley, who withdrew his amendment because 10 of its cosponsors were absent from the Senate, said it would have removed the Federal Power Commission's authority to regulate the wellhead price of natural gas.

Market tieup expanded

Supermarket employers turned to courts in Northern and Southern California Friday to curtail union picketing, and the unions retaliated by expanding their strike to Las Vegas as the food industry strike-lockout passed its fifth day.

Despite continued efforts at one-upmanship, however, union meatcutters and Northern California representatives of the Food Employers Council agreed to renew negotiations in a meeting today with a federal mediator.

Only the butchers' union is striking chain supermarkets in the northern part of the state. Renewed talks between the employers' council and the striking five-union coalition in the Southland are scheduled Monday and Tuesday in Los Angeles.

An employers' council spokesman who announced the renewal of talks in the San Francisco area also disclosed the management group has won four separate court orders restraining unions from mass picketing at chain markets, their warehouses and offices.

Two such orders, obtained in the Los Angeles Superior Court of Judge Campbell Lucas, now are in effect in Orange County, said Bob Voigt, management spokesman.

The orders, one of which was issued Friday, restrain Orange County Teamsters in Locals 235 and 952 from mass picketing and otherwise disrupting normal business at stores in the Lucky's and Albertson's chains, said Voigt.

An Alameda County Superior Court Friday issued a similar order limiting to two the number of meatcutters who can picket any entrance of Lucky's markets or that chain's distribution center in San Leandro.

Broadest of the court orders was obtained by the employers' council Thursday. Issuance of that order—covering the Southland picketing of all four striking unions—was followed by an extension of picketing to two major produce marts in downtown Los Angeles.

The night-long picketing, suspended at 5 a.m. Friday, eliminated or drastically cut shipments of produce to most metropolitan area markets, union spokesmen maintained.

Voigt acknowledged that morning shipments were canceled, but added that after removal of the pickets shipments resumed. In the meantime, he said, some store managers worked out plans to get along in the future without produce from the downtown suppliers.

After Friday's court actioned it had turned in a new direction, putting up picket lines at Safeway stores in Las Vegas, Nev. There was no indication how long that picketing would continue.

The strike-lockout, with the council of 61 supermarket chains faced off against the Teamsters, Meatcutters, Operating Engineers and Machinists, has idled some 22,000 workers and diminished supplies of foodstuffs at hundreds of Southland markets since negotiations broke down last weekend.

Record industry growth pushes prime to 10 pct.

NEW YORK (AP) — New York's First National City Bank boosted its prime lending rate to 10 per cent Friday, indicating that despite the oil crisis, industry is expanding at a record pace, economists said.

But they said a slowdown is expected once the full force of the energy crunch hits, followed perhaps by an easing of the prime rate.

Following similar moves by several other banks, the Federal Reserve Board announced in Washington Friday that it was reducing reserve requirements banks must maintain against deposits. The action was expected to result in a reduction of interest rates.

A government official said that the timing of the Fed action was directly related to the rise in the prime rate Friday.

The Fed said the action was taken in recognition of an easing demand by companies for loans.

Nevertheless, private economists said corporate demand for loans was still running very high.

Earlier in the day, the 3/4 per cent upward move by Citibank, the nation's second largest bank, quickly was duplicated by Bankers Trust Co. and several other major commercial banks.

However, Bank of America, the nation's largest bank, said it would try to hold its prime at 9 1/4 per cent.

The prime rate is the base lending rate banks charge their largest corporate customers. Consumer and small business rates are set separately, but they generally follow the ups and downs of the prime rate.

"Citibank's move is highly significant since their prime is based on a formula derived from money market conditions in general," said Raymond DeVoe, vice president of Spencer Trask, a Wall Street firm. "It means that there still is high demand for corporate loans."

"This suggests that the economy is still quite strong," said an economist for another firm. "I believe, however, that it's not going to stay that way."

Economists said that the prime rate frequently reflects the rate of the nation's growth, and the level of wholesale prices.

Erratic Skylab gyro viewed with concern

HOUSTON (UPI) — Flight controllers said Friday one of Skylab's two good stabilizing gyroscopes was acting like another gyro that broke down a month ago and the erratic apparatus was being watched with "concern but not alarm."

Flight director Neil Hutchinson said if a second of the indispensable stabilization devices were to fail, the Skylab 3 crew would have to return to earth within two weeks. He emphasized, however, that there is little chance of a second gyro failure at present.

Hutchinson said that over the last several days the misbehaving gyroscope had occasionally lost speed in the wheels that spin inside it to keep Skylab flying straight in orbit.

He also said there was a decrease in electric current powering the gyro.

"I'm not advocating that the gyro is on its knees or anything like that," Hutchinson said. "It's a cause for concern but not alarm. There are no odds on a failure."

He said there had been attempts to come up with a scheme for using only one gyro to control the 100-ton spaceship's attitude in orbit. The effort was scrapped after it was found that development of the scheme would take until the end of the Skylab 3 flight in February.

Skylab 3 crewmen Gerald Carr, Edward Gibson and William Pogue awoke an hour early Friday to photograph Christmas comet Kohoutek to help scientists learn whether the comet's frozen core contains material from the formation of the solar system.

Scientists on the ground keeping track of Kohoutek's streak toward the sun throughout the day said there was no evidence the comet was breaking up.

The Kohoutek project scientist, William Snoddy of the Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., said he had heard reports that some astronomers were predicting a breakup of the so-called "comet of the century."

"This is not the first time in the lifetime of Kohoutek that we've heard this," Snoddy said. "We depend on the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory for the day to day life of the comet. They have taken a very firm position that the comet has not split up."

Chapin denies lies on 'dirty tricks'

Combined News Services
WASHINGTON — Dwight Chapin, a worker in Nixon election campaigns since 1962 and a top first-term aide, pleaded innocent in federal court Friday to charges that he lied to a Watergate grand jury about a campaign of "dirty tricks." His trial is scheduled to start Feb. 19. The 33-year-old Chapin was indicted Nov. 29 on four counts charging he made false declarations last April 11 when he testified about the activities of Donald Segretti, who now is serving six months for distributing illegal campaign literature in the Florida primary. Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine.

No more copper pennies?

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Mary Brooks, head of the U.S. Mint, announced Friday the mint probably will begin making pennies out of aluminum by mid-1974 because of the rising cost of copper if Congress agrees. She also revealed she would like to have authority to mint a 2½-cent piece, but that a major drawback has been the selection of someone's picture to put on it. Copper pennies would continue in circulation even after production of aluminum pennies is initiated. There are estimated to be about 34 billion copper pennies in circulation, with about 7 billion new pennies produced each year. If copper pennies are no longer coined, it would be only the second time since the first copper penny was issued into circulation in 1793. About 1.1 billion zinc-coated steel pennies were minted during World War II when copper was in short supply.

Mine-union cleanup power

PITTSBURGH — The United Mine Workers, in a display of faith in their new, reformist international executive board, voted Friday to allow the suspension of autonomy in locals where corruption may be suspected. The resolution was adopted 821-674 in a district-by-district vote. Many of the districts were among those which just recently won autonomy through court suits against the administration of ousted UMW president W. A. "Tony" Boyle.

In neighboring Cambodia the government withdrew from a garrison on Highway 4 after a week-long attack by insurgent forces. The rebels now occupy a five-mile stretch of the highway, Phnom Penh's link to the sea, starting about 36 miles west of the capitol.

Rash of bombings in Belfast

BELFAST — Eleven car bombs exploded in Belfast during the night as a wave of bomb scares sent British bomb disposal experts scrambling throughout the city. No one was hurt in the night blasts. While British army experts investigated 29 bomb alerts, hundreds of troops swept through known Irish Republican Army strongholds in a bid to smash an anticipated IRA campaign to upstage the talks between Northern Ireland leaders and the British and Irish governments being held outside of London. Most of the bomb reports were hoaxes.

Allies balk at troop costs

BRUSSELS — America's European allies balked Friday at American demands to help more with the financial upkeep of U.S. forces in Europe or face limited withdrawal of troops, conference sources said. Defense ministers of NATO went no further during closed-door talks than to assure the U.S. government they will examine its call for more help "on a positive basis," the sources reported. An amendment passed by Congress demands that the Europeans make up the deficit or face a cutback in U.S. troop levels in Europe.

Bahama judge refuses to extradite Vesco

Combined News Services

A Bahamian magistrate refused Friday to order fugitive financier Robert Vesco extradited to the U.S. to stand trial on a federal wire-fraud charge. The judge ruled the charge was not an extraditable offense under a 1931 Bahamian-American treaty.

After the ruling, U.S. Atty. Paul Curran of New York conferred with Bahamian counsel to find out whether "we may have some rights of review. If so, we may pursue them."

Under Bahamian law no direct appeal of such a decision is possible, but legal sources said there could be an appeal to the Bahamian Supreme Court on a point of law.

A federal grand jury indictment in New York in July alleged Vesco, 38, defrauded the International Controls Corporation of New Jersey of $50,000 early last year and used the money as part payment for a block of shares in his Investors Overseas Service.

Vesco also has been indicted along with two former Nixon administration Cabinet members — John Mitchell and Maurice Stans — over an alleged $200,000 secret campaign contribution to Richard Nixon.

Vesco left the U.S. last February and first settled in Costa Rica where he has investments. He also is free to remain in the Bahamas, where he has large investments, or fly to Argentina, which has granted him a permanent resident's visa and authorized him to go into business there.

Wassily Leontief, winner of the 1973 Nobel Prize in economic science, said Friday in Stockholm there was no prospect for world peace unless the problem of unjust income distribution in the world is solved.

Professor Leontief, 67, director of the Harvard Economic Research Project, said there are several important problems that must be solved in the world.

"In the short run it is the oil problem, and in the long run the problem of the world economy," he said. "But in my personal view, the most important problem in the long run is the problem of the poor countries. It is a real problem. Not only to them, but to us as well."

Film star Chuck Connors, visiting Russia on invitation from Communist Party leader Leonid Brezhnev, said Friday in Moscow he had signed an agreement with the Soviets for coproduction of a television show of his trip.

Connors, who lifted Brezhnev off the ground in a moment of joviality during the Soviet leader's visit to the U.S., said he would star in a film entitled "Chuck Connors Visits the Soviet Union." Any profits from the one-hour program, also to be shown on Soviet television, would be split with the Soviets.

Stand-off

In August, 1972, I bought a 1966 Morris Minor woody station wagon for $250 from a junkyard. Since I was restoring the car, I hadn't registered it yet. Because the car had been junked, I didn't get the pink slip for it, but I do have a bill of sale. A few weeks ago, a South Gate couple showed up with the pink slip and demanded the car. They came back later when I wasn't home and took it. I have put about $2,000 into the car. The couple claims they received title to the car as payment for a debt and then the car disappeared. I've called the California Department of Motor Vehicles, the police and the Legal Aid Society, but nobody will help me. T.R., Paramount.

You and the South Gate couple are at a stand-off and a civil suit may be necessary to settle the matter. After the former owner signed the title over to the couple as payment for a debt, she notified DMV that she had lost the pink slip. She then sold the car to the junk yard and apparently left town. SINCE DMV has declared the "lost" pink slip void, neither the couple nor anyone else they sell the car to can register it. Since you hold the bill of sale from the junk yard, you're the only one who can register the car, but you can't do that until you have possession of it. ACTION LINE notified the South Gate couple of the status of their pink slip and we offered to try to mediate a settlement between the two parties, but they refused to answer our letter.

RINGER

At the Orange County Fair this summer, I ordered a ring from the Sid & Dar Co., P.O. Box 877, Lucerne, Calif. 95458, which specializes in making jewelry out of sterling silver spoons. In September, I sent the company a U.S. Navy spoon, and I was supposed to receive the ring in five days. I still haven't got it. The spoon was 20 years old and it had a lot of sentimental value. I've written to the company and telephoned, but I couldn't get an answer. Can ACTION LINE help? S.L., Huntington Beach.

You should receive your ring in about 10 days, according to Earl Alsobrook, co-owner of the family-operated jewelry company. He apologized for the delay and said that his son, who makes the rings, had been in the process of moving his shop and the orders stacked up faster than he could make the rings.

Poison pumps

Automobiles got better gasoline mileage 10 years ago before smog devices were installed. Since cars consume more gas now, don't they emit more pollutants per miles driven than they did in 1963? C.C., Long Beach.

No. According to the California Air Resources Board, the average car in 1963 (prior to smog controls) emitted 11 grams of hydrocarbons per mile, 80 grams of carbon monoxide and 4 grams of nitrogen oxides. The average 1973 automobile with a smog device contributes 3.2 grams of hydrocarbons per mile, 39 grams of carbon monoxide, and 3 grams of nitrogen oxides. The ARB also has recently released information indicating that small cars don't necessarily pollute less than large ones do. Smaller engines emit less exhaust gas, but because of the nature of the engine, the exhaust normally contains greater proportions of toxic substances. Without smog controls of any kind, smaller automobiles generally emit more hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide, and larger cars contribute more nitrogen oxides, according to the ARB.

On call

Pacific Telephone offers a cut-rate service for individuals who don't use their phones very much. The company allows a person to make up to 30 calls a month for about $2.25. I've heard that General Telephone is going to offer this special rate to Long Beach area residents, but I can't find out when it is supposed to go into effect. I called the telephone company, but the clerk I spoke to didn't know anything about it. G.H., Long Beach.

General Telephone will start installing its cut-rate metered service in January, 1975, according to a company spokesman. The details of the program have not been finalized yet, but basically the service will permit a person to make up to a set number of local calls each month for a flat rate. Customers will pay an additional amount for each call over the monthly limit and long distant calls will be billed at the conventional rate.

Mideast peace held key to '74 oil flow

By CHARLES HINCH
Staff Writer

The realities behind Russian-Arab relations mean the flow of oil from the Mideast to the United States may well resume next year easing, if not eliminating the fuel shortage, Dr. Armand Hammer, chairman of the board of the Occidental Corporation, said Friday night.

He spoke at a meeting of the Southern California Associated Press News Executives Council aboard the Queen Mary. "The oil will flow again if we get a permanent peace in the Mideast," he said, "and the chances for that are excellent because Russia wants it and the Arabs are dependent on the Russians for arms."

DR. Hammer said he left a two-hour meeting with Communist Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev three weeks ago "with the thought that this permanent peace may occur before the summit conference of 1974 which Mr. Brezhnev told me is planned with our President."

The Soviets are particularly anxious to end the war, he continued, because of the "political needs" of Russia and the U.S. to solidify detente through trade.

Hammer's corporation is one of the largest in the petroleum industry and he has friends in the highest councils of government in the Mideast and Russia.

Hammer touched on two other subjects at the meeting:

The troubles of Occidental and former Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty with a City Council committee investigating a land swap between Occidental and the city in 1969.

AND A discovery by an Occidental research subsidiary which will enable the company to recover oil from huge oil shale deposits in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah.

Yorty appeared before the committee on governmental efficiency Friday. He will be exonerated, Hammer said. "Everything he did was in the interests of the city. There's nothing to it."

Oil is extracted from shale, said an Occidental spokesman, by subjecting the shale rock to intense heat. The company's new method, Hammer said, can be performed underground and does not require above ground mining, tankage, piping or the use of above ground plants in which to subject the rock to the heating process.

THE Rocky mountain area, he said, is the largest potential source of shale petroleum in the world with reserves estimated at almost two trillion barrels of oil.

A part of Friday's night's meeting was a reception honoring Wes Gallagher, president and general manager of the AP.

Teacher strike ordered halted

By KRIS DULANEY
Staff Writer

Striking Compton teachers were ordered by a Superior Court judge Friday to halt their eight-day walkout, but the district's superintendent of schools said the order may not be necessary, because he is "very hopeful" of a settlement this weekend.

The temporary restraining order, barring teachers from striking the district's 41 campuses and interfering with other teachers or pupils entering school buildings, was issued in Los Angeles by Superior court Judge David A. Thomas.

HE WAS acting on a lawsuit brought against the striking Compton Education Association (CEA) by an organization called the Citizens' Legal Defense Alliance. The suit charged the picketing teachers showed "willful disregard for the state legislative and judicial process."

Thomas denied a bid by the CEA to stop the Defense Alliance from "interfering with sensitive negotiations" between teachers and school administrators.

His rulings came while another marathon negotiation session was under way to end the walkout that began Nov. 29 over more pay and increased safety in the schools.

Though spokesmen for both sides said there had been "some progress," officials declined to discuss specific issues. Location of the talks was not disclosed.

A spokesman for the district, however, said issues under discussion included "working conditions, violence in the schools and salaries."

In Addition, Superintendent Dr. Curtis H. Kennedy said negotiations would continue today, and "around the clock, if necessary." He said he had "a real strong feeling" that a settlement would be reached during the weekend talks.

Priddy trial goes to jury

United Press International

A Los Angeles jury of 10 women and two men late Friday began deliberation of extortion charges against former baseball star Jerry Priddy.

The jury failed to reach a verdict in the first hours of deliberation and were excused by U.S. District Court Judge Irving Hill until Monday.

The prosecutor at the trial wound up his case by asserting that Priddy had fabricated a story of having the life of his family threatened by a "phantom caller."

Ban asked on balloon toy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Consumers Union asked the government Friday to ban balloon toys made of a glue-like plastic. It said swallowing the substance could give children problems ranging from choking to upset stomach.

The toys consist of a glue-like material which the user puts on the end of a straw. By blowing through the straw, a balloon is formed at the end similar to a regular rubber one.

The Consumers Union, which publishes "Consumer Reports" magazine, asked the Consumer Products Safety Commission to declare five brands hazardous substances.

THE PROBLEM, the organization said, is because the glue-like material contains up to 25 per cent acetone, a flammable material also used in nail polish remover and paint solvents.

The five brands named in the petition are: Superelasticbubbleplastic made by Wham-O Manufacturing Co., San Gabriel, Calif.; and four brands made by Kentoy Corp., Cicero, Ill.

"Bugs Bunny Plastic Balloons," "Mickey Mouse Balloon Art," "Make Your Own Plastic Balloons Blue" and "Wonder Plastic Balloons."

The petition said commission records showed four cases of emergency room treatment due to swallowing the balloons. Three of the victims were under the age of 5.

AMONG WRITTEN complaints, a lawyer for Consumers Union said, "the most frequent was upset stomach or nausea."

Other major complaints were a burning sensation of the mouth and lips, headache, a drug-like euphoria, burning throat, upper respiratory tract irritation, chest pains and choking and coughing in both adults and children.

The lawyers said there did not appear to be any danger of death associated with the products.

In 1967, the Food and Drug Administration, predecessor agency of the Consumer Products Safety Commission, granted an exemption to plastic balloons with up to 25 per cent acetone. The new petition asked that that exemption be repealed and that the balloons be declared hazardous.

Children's peril of disease told

ANAHEIM (AP) — Polio, diphtheria and other crippling diseases could start showing up among preschool children because of low immunization rates in some areas of California, state Sen. Anthony Beilenson said Friday.

Such a renewed incidence of childhood diseases "is a distinct possibility, particularly in low income areas where there are large numbers of susceptible preschool children," the Beverly Hills Democrat said in a prepared speech.

VD rate rise said slowing

ATLANTA (AP) — The rate at which syphilis cases are increasing in the United States continues to decline, the Center for Disease Control said Friday.

The decline began last April, CDC officials said, and the number of reported cases increased less than 1 per cent through October.

Statistician Oscar Jones said the incidence of reported syphilis rose by an average of 6 to 8 per cent in 1968-1972 and this year's April decline was the first reversal of the trend.

Bush says impeach effort 'orchestrated'

ATLANTA (UPI) — National Republican Chairman George Bush told a Southern GOP conference Friday he believes most of the impeachment and resignation talk concerning President Nixon "has been orchestrated" by a few people. "I am one who believes that most of the impeachment and resignation talk has been orchestrated," he said. "Not all of it, but most of it." AFL-CIO President George Meany, consumer advocate Ralph Nader and "a handful of others ... all have their gigantic mimeograph machines in operation and they do gin up some action. But I don't feel any grassroots pressure for the President's getting out."

Rockefeller refuses comment on '72 plans

ATLANTA (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York refused on Friday to confirm or deny reports that he plans to resign before Christmas to start campaigning for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination. "I have to make a decision before Jan. 9 and I promise to do so and state it to the people of New York," Rockefeller told a news conference. He chose that date because the New York Legislature convenes then.

Rockefeller was in Atlanta to address the Southern Republican Conference. The 65-year-old governor recently has undertaken several speaking engagements around the nation, leading observers to believe he is focusing on the national political scene.

Bush said if Nixon is allowed to do his job, if the public realizes that "the dire predictions of economic disaster are not valid," and "if there are no more horrendous shocks," the people will respond. They will tell Congress "in a resounding voice ... get off his back," he said.

Bush was the keynote speaker at a session of the conference. He said the party was in good shape financially "in this most traumatic year."

He said, however, he felt Watergate had "a minimal impact" on this year's elections. Watergate hurt, he said, but "is not a wipeout issue for Republicans."

REP. JOHN F. RHODES of Arizona, left, appears on the steps of the Capitol, after his election, with Rep. Les Arends of Illinois.

Historic accord in House GOP leadership change

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — for the first time in recent memory, House Republicans changed leaders without a fight Friday and elected Rep. John L. Rhodes of Arizona as minority leader to succeed Gerald R. Ford, who was sworn in Thursday as vice president.

The 57-year-old Rhodes, a conservative Republican who has been chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee for the last 11 years, was elevated to the minority leader's post by acclamation and without opposition at a closed conference of House Republicans.

RHODES told reporters that he "wouldn't be a party" to any move in Congress to urge President Nixon to resign but said he would insist on closer consultation with the White House before the administration sends legislation to Congress.

Rhodes, who was first elected to the House in 1952, four years after Ford, had been assured of the minority leader's post since mid-October when his last potential challenger, Rep. Leslie C. Arends of Illinois, the 78-year-old minority whip, withdrew. Arends subsequently announced that he would retire when his current term expires next year.

Records of the House Republican conference indicated that the last Republican minority leader initially elected by acclamation was Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts, who took over the Republican leadership in 1939. Martin, who later became speaker of the House, was unseated by Rep. Charles Halleck of Indiana in 1959, and Halleck was ousted by Ford in 1965.

EVEN before the elevation of Rhodes to minority leader, another intraparty skirmish was developing between Rep. Barber B. Conable Jr., a moderate Republican of Upstate New York, and Del Clawson, a conservative Republican of California, to succeed Rhodes as chairman of the House Republican Policy Committee.

House Republicans will hold another conference next Tuesday to select a new policy committee chairman, a job that has led in the past to the chairmanship of the platform committee at the party's national nominating convention.

Although he is regarded as a staunch supporter of the Nixon administration in the House, Rhodes described himself as an independent. "My constituency is the Republican members of the House," he said.

HE SAID he hoped that the House Judiciary Committee's investigation of possible presidential impeachment could be "thorough" and "rapid" so that "we can clear up the matter once and for all" by next March. He said he hoped that the Judiciary Committee would not vote an impeachment resolution, but that if the committee did, he hoped the resolution would be defeated on the House floor.

Rhodes said that in the past the administration has consulted with Republican congressional leaders in the drafting of legislation, "only in some instances." He added: "I want to make it a must."

Younger urges 'free' atty. gen.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The U.S. attorney general should be removed from the control of the President to restore the Watergate-shattered public confidence in our system of justice, California's highest law enforcement official said Friday. "Certainly one way that we might restore and maintain public faith in the system of justice is to remove the attorney general from the immediate political control of the President," said State Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger.

Changes in the method of selection of the nation's top lawyer might be one way to restore confidence, he told the California Press Association, but another change could be more immediate.

"The department should stop being a political arm of the administration. The Attorney General's office should cease to be a repository for retired campaign managers," he said, mentioning John F. Kennedy's appointment of his brother and campaign manager Robert to the post and President Nixon's appointment of John Mitchell.

"A cursory glance at problems of recent U.S. attorneys general convinces me that we have received better public service from those who came to the post from a legal background rather than those who got there by running the President's campaign," he said.

Younger, a possible candidate for the GOP nomination for governor in 1974, praised former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson for his efforts to remove political influence from the Justice Department.

Ball murders labeled as 'planned execution'

By MOLLY BURRELL, Staff Writer

"A clear, unadulterated case of planned execution of two innocent men," the chief prosecutor in the Ball murder trial summarized Friday in Pasadena.

Dep. Dist. Atty. Charles Sheldon then called for a first-degree conviction of the two defendants, based on what he termed abundant proof of premeditation and planning, and the fact that the killings occurred during the commission of a robbery.

During his three-hour summary argument in Superior Court, Sheldon also gave a detailed review of salient testimony and refuted defense contentions.

His summary ended the seventh week of the trial, moved to Pasadena in a change of venue. Charged were Carl D. McQuillion, 23, and Walter Thomas Curry, 36, who were arrested after a call to the Independent Press-Telegram's Secret Witness program. They were accused of slaying Cyril Ball, 64, and his son, James, 37, Dec. 26, 1970, and of taking $1,000, 17 guns, and a quantity of ammunition from the Ball and Frank Sporting Goods store at 345 Long Beach Blvd.

Just before Sheldon began his summary, the final prosecution witness, a hospital admission clerk from West Virginia, produced records indicating that a key part of McQuillion's testimony was false. Mrs. Donna Bowen testified that Virgil Bradley, the man McQuillion claimed had driven him around Long Beach late in the afternoon of Dec. 26, 1970, had been admitted to Huntington State mental hospital Dec. 24, 1970, and stayed there until Jan. 2, 1971.

Sheldon concentrated most of his argument on the stolen guns—including identification of the murder weapon—and on the alleged confessor to the crime, Edward Kissell. He also stressed what he called the "lucky" angles of the case: the accidental discovery of eight of the missing guns in an Inglewood trash bin, and the Secret Witness who disclosed a clue which had been known only to key investigators.

"We were lucky Morris Ratner liked to rummage in trash barrels," Sheldon declared, referring to the deaf mute who unearthed the stolen guns the morning after the murders.

He also praised the Secret Witness who called the newspaper nearly two years after the crime, related conversations by the defendants, and told of their detour to Inglewood before they left Los Angeles by bus the night of the killings. The location of the Inglewood gun find had purposely been kept secret by police, according to testimony.

Of Kissell, Sheldon summarized: "He ran the gamut from initial denial to naming five different men he drove to the scene, and then, finally, complete denial." He recalled the 11 men who confessed murdering Sen. Percy's daughter and the large number who confessed in the famous Black Dahlia murder.

In an attack on McQuillion's testimony about buying guns from a fence named "Randy" the night of the killings, Sheldon asked the jury: "Can you believe he's going to spend $300 of his total funds—$750—on 16 guns, all new, and then a few hours later, let half of them be thrown away, along with all that ammunition—which isn't traceable by serial numbers?"

Regarding one of the guns found in Inglewood, a 22 caliber Huntsman automatic identified by Long Beach police ballistics experts as the murder weapon, Sheldon asked: "After the defense so hotly disputed this testimony, why was there no refuting it?"

Commenting on the tenacious defense effort to discredit the Secret Witness testimony, Sheldon stressed the difficulties inherent in recalling exact details and fixing times.

Then, in a quiet courtroom demonstration he asked the jury: "Do you notice the red and blue tie I have on this afternoon? How many of you notice it is not the one I wore this morning?" Then he pulled a grey and white tie from his attache case and held it up. "This was the one I wore when I first started talking to you," he said.

McQuillion's attorney, Frank Aldrich, will begin his summary Monday, and Curry's counsel, Dep. Public Defender Steven Hough will follow. Prosecution rebuttal is expected Tuesday, and the case may go to the jury Wednesday.

Further psychiatric examinations were ordered Friday for a 26-year-old former Long Beach State University student declared unfit to stand trial earlier this year in the 1971 hatchet slayings of a 20-year-old San Pedro woman and her infant son.

John Michael Finley was declared insane and unable to stand trial in Long Beach Superior Court last January in connection with the slayings of Judith Terry and her 16-month-old son on Jan. 24, 1971. The woman's 21-year-old husband was critically injured in the hatchet attack.

Judge D. Sterry Fagan ordered the examinations by two doctors after officials at Atascadero State Hospital said Finley would be able to understand trial proceedings against him and was therefore competent.

Fagan said more examinations are necessary to determine if the defendant also understands the charges against him. Results of the tests will be given to Fagan Jan. 4. If the defendant is judged sane, his trial will begin Jan. 17.

The San Pedro family was attacked by a hatchet-wielding assailant who hacked repeatedly at the woman and infant. The father required 40 stitches to close wounds in his face.

Finley was ordered sent to Atascadero in January by Judge John Arguelles, who said the defendant would remain committed there until deemed fit to stand trial. Finley has undergone repeated psychiatric examinations by several doctors who have disputed his mental state.

Daring armed robbery at City Hall

Associated Press

Four armed men wearing masks robbed two armored truck guards at Los Angeles City Hall Friday, escaped in a shiny limousine and wound up holding the bag—and not much else.

The daring, professionally planned robbery across the street from Los Angeles Police Department headquarters came just as city government was starting its working day. The four men entered the building, cornered the guards in an elevator and grabbed the sack containing $11 million in cancelled checks, all worthless according to acting City Treasurer Le-land Koon.

One of the men was seen carrying a submachine gun, the others pistols, authorities said.

"They got a lot of nothing," said Koon.

He said the Brink's truck regularly makes deliveries to City Hall

Friday mornings but what the robbers apparently didn't know is that the Friday morning delivery consists of nothing but cancelled checks from bank clearing houses.

"They're only worth money to the bank, nobody else," said Koon. "It'll be a big bookkeeping headache if we don't get them back."

Koon made a plea with the robbers not to destroy the worthless notes. "The bank and the treasurer's office and the comptroller will have a lot of paper work to handle if we don't get those notes back. They have no value to the robbers and we'd like to have them back, and as soon as possible, too."

Koon said the checks were clearly stamped as being paid by banks and would not be honored again.

A spokesman for the treasurer's office said the only thing of value taken in the robbery was the Brink's bag, worth about $4.

Biker bound over in torture-slaying

Thomas Carl Kirby, 25-year-old Long Beach motorcycle club member, Friday was bound over to Long Beach Superior Court for trial in the torture-slaying death of Candis Jean Wilbur, 16.

Municipal Judge Michael J. Yelovich, who heard two days of testimony in the case, ordered the bearded, slightly built defendant to jail in lieu of $50,000 bail pending his arraignment Dec. 20 in Department J in Superior Court.

The girl's body was found Nov. 14 in a cave beside a much-used path down the beach bluff near San Pedro's Pt. Petrin Park, two miles from her home. Police said the victim's nickname, Candi, engraved on a motorcycle club belt she was wearing, led indirectly to her identification and, ultimately, to the arrest of Kirby.

Witnesses testifying included a beach visitor who found the girl's body, an autopsy surgeon, the victim's 14-year-old sister, a 15-year-old girl friend of Candi's, an uncle of the victim and a Harbor Division homicide detective.

The autopsy surgeon testified about "torture marks"—described by police as a tic-tac-toe pattern of knife cuts—on the girl's body.

Kirby, known by acquaintances as "Little Tom," was arrested Nov. 16 at a shop he manages at 4 Pacific Ave., Long Beach. His counsel is Public Defender Charles A. Gangloff, of Long Beach Dep. Dist. Atty. Ray Saukkola prosecuted.

Space lack forces trial shift to L.A.

The murder trial of a transient accused in the bludgeoning of a 71-year-old Long Beach woman was transferred to Los Angeles Friday because of a lack of court space in Long Beach.

Long Beach Superior Judge D. Sterry Fagan ordered the transfer in the case of defendant James Edward Wallace after learning the trial must begin Monday or charges could be dismissed.

Wallace, 59, is accused in the Sept. 8 death of Mary Bernhardt Barnett, whose body was found in her home at 342 Juniper Ave. Police was the killer used a mop handle, broken pieces of which were found at the scene.

Three hours after the victim was last seen alive Wallace was arrested on a charge of public drunkenness two blocks from the woman's home.

In ordering the transfer, Judge Fagan explained that defendants in felony cases must be tried within 60 days of filing of criminal complaints against them or a motion to dismiss charges can be made.

Kissinger off to visit Europe, Middle East

By BERNARD GWERTZMAN
New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger leaves today on a two-week trip to Europe and the Middle East to smooth relations with America's traditional allies and to encourage Israel and the Arab states to talk seriously about peace.

On the eve of Kissinger's visit to 11 countries — five in Europe and six in the Middle East — a senior State Department official made no effort to disguise the serious problems that have arisen within the Atlantic alliance in what the administration once called hopefully "the year of Europe."

Egyptian and Israeli troops exchanged machine gun and mortar fire in Suez City, with Finnish soldiers of the United Nations emergency force caught in the crossfire, a U.N. spokesman said Friday.

But he stressed that Kissinger "wants to look ahead rather than concentrate on the past" in his discussions at the meeting of North Atlantic Treaty Organization foreign ministers in Brussels, where he arrives tonight, and in London, his second stop on Tuesday. He plans a major speech in London Wednesday night.

Kissinger spent his last day in Washington concentrating on Middle East problems in advance of his scheduled tour of the area from next Thursday through Dec. 17. Then he plans to go to Geneva for the expected start the next day of the Middle East peace conference between Israel and at least three Arab states, Egypt, Syria and Jordan.

Kissinger met with Ashraf Abdel Latis Ghobal, the new Egyptian ambassador, to lay the groundwork for his visit to Cairo next Thursday.

In Egypt, Kissinger will discuss with President Anwar Sadat the problems caused by the failure of Israel and Egypt to agree on new cease-fire lines, and to urge Egypt to take a constructive attitude at Geneva.

Kissinger's aides said they also expected him to urge the Israeli government to remain flexible when he arrives in Tel Aviv on Dec. 16 after visiting Saudi Arabia, Syria, Jordan, and Lebanon.

Aides said his talks with King Faisal in Saudi Arabia would focus on ways to lift the Arab oil embargo against the U.S. Kissinger prepared for those talks Thursday night at an unpublicized meeting at the State Department with Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Al-Yamani, the Saudi minister of petroleum affairs, whom he also saw on Wednesday.

Sheik Yamani, in his comments in Washington, has said that Saudi Arabia wanted to remain a close friend of the U.S. and was ready to ease the embargo if the U.S. took the proper action. Kissinger refused at a news conference Thursday to disclose details of his talks with Sheik Yamani. But he said the U.S. believed the embargo was "no longer appropriate," given Washington's energetic efforts for a fair peace.

This trip will be Kissinger's second major one since becoming secretary of state. Last month, he made a nine-nation, 12-day trip to the Middle East, China, Japan and South Korea.

DAYAN VISIT

Kissinger, who is believed anxious to get some concession from the Israelis on a military pullback before he visits Cairo next week. However, now that he is here, Dayan is expected to press Israel's plea for additional money and military equipment in case peace efforts break down and fighting resumes.

President Nixon has already asked Congress to provide $2.2 billion for this purpose but the Israelis are pressing for more.

When asked whether Israel was willing to pull back its forces near the Suez Canal as the "first phase" of the Geneva conference, Dayan declined to give any precise answer. He said: "We hope the first phase will be constructive. Now what exactly shall be decided there we shall see... We will have to bargain and deal and give and take and everything so there is no point to speculate now about the outcome."

Egypt has said there must be an Israeli military pullback before the conference can proceed. Kissinger is trying to narrow the gap between the two warring countries before leaving today for a NATO foreign ministers conference, to be followed by a quick tour of six Middle Eastern capitals.

Kissinger held another meeting with influential Arab officials Thursday night and conferred for the second straight day with Saudi Arabia's Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani, whose country bankrolls Egypt and other Arab nations fighting Israel.

Dayan was asked whether he believed his country must withdraw to the boundaries it held before the June 1967 war, in which it captured all of Jordan west of the Jordan River and the Sinai up to the Suez Canal. "We don't feel we must do anything," he said. "We feel that we want to make peace and compromise and be forthcoming and whatever, but we don't feel that we must."

GRIEVOUS FUEL SHORTAGES

tions to give farmers priority in diesel deliveries.

Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare recommended to the White House energy office that elementary and high schools be required to lower temperatures 6 degrees from last year's heating levels instead of the previously proposed 10 degrees.

The Associated General Contractors complained that proposed rules for allocating diesel fuel would cut back construction activity by 20 per cent and put 1 million building tradesmen out of work.

The government announced that unemployment rose to 4.7 per cent in November — the biggest increase in 21 months — and is expected to go even higher this winter as fuel shortages cause more layoffs.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said the energy crisis could be solved by removing all price controls on fuels and imposing a stiff excess profits tax on the oil industry. He said he is opposed to rationing or an increased tax on gasoline.

Despite the fuel shortage and a cutback of some 1,000 flights, the Air Transport Association said the nation's airlines expect to carry more than 8 million passengers over the Christmas holidays.

The Senate Interior Committee's analysis said that if Nixon's energy program is fully effective, shortages of at least 1.6 million to 2 million barrels will persist daily throughout the winter. It added that the shortage could reach 3.4 million barrels a day by early February and 5 million by spring.

"It seems clear that under any set of circumstances which does not include an immediate resumption of the flow of Arab oil, the United States must anticipate the most grievous shortages ever experienced," the study said.

"The extent of the shortages and the threat they pose to the economy and to the national security exceed by far any savings resulting from measures taken to date."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., committee chairman, said the study "makes it clear that the administration must not only face up to the need for immediate gasoline rationing, but must also take urgent steps to reduce the drawdown of inventories now taking place."

Stein said the question facing the administration is not one of rationing versus high prices. "One could have some price increase, one could have some tax increase and one could still have some rationing, although I believe that there are a lot of disadvantages to rationing," he said.

He indicated the administration might consider restricting "windfall profits" by imposing an excise tax on the oil companies if fuel prices go up, but added: "I don't think we should regard profits for the oil companies as a dirty word."

Stein was interviewed on NBC's Today show.

One provision of the House emergency energy bill would authorize Nixon to control windfall profits. The Senate version does not contain that provision.

The House bill also would authorize Nixon over the next 13 months to control highway speeds, delay strict auto emission controls until 1977, control exports of scarce fuels, allow antitrust waivers to businesses for conservation purposes, encourage car pools and allocate fuel to the neediest users.

Trucker blockades called off after adjustments in fuel costs

United Press International

Leaders of truck drivers protesting increasing fuel costs won concessions from the government Friday and called on their fellow truckers to get their rigs rolling again.

The four truckers who went to Washington to negotiate with federal officials called off threatened blockades after the Interstate Commerce Commission revised its procedures so truck operators could quickly pass along to shippers the increased costs caused by fuel price increases.

"We don't see any reason for a shutdown now," said J. W. "River Rat" Edwards of Overland Park, Kan., one of the truckers who went to Washington to seek relief from high fuel prices, low speed limits and other restrictions imposed because of the energy shortage. The drivers say their paychecks have been sliced by the new regulations and high prices.

"WE WANT" all truckers represented by the drivers who came to Washington to roll again," said another truck leader, Fred Shaw of Shelby, Ohio.

There were no reports of truck blockades around the nation Friday night.

However, encampments of truckers in Ohio and Pennsylvania adopted a wait-and-see attitude about the Washington negotiations. Their leaders said they wanted to know more about the government's revisions before they roll.

At a mammoth truck stop in Lamar, Pa., where as many as 1,000 truckers and their rigs have been camped this week, about 30 trucks moved out. The exodus came to a halt when truckers said they wanted to see the changes in writing before they budged.

In the Toledo, Ohio, area — scene of a big blockade that halted traffic sporadically earlier in the week — leaders of an estimated 600 to 800 truckers said they weren't ready to move.

"THAT'S not good enough," trucker C. W. Bassett said about the Washington talks. But Bassett, of Youngstown, Ohio, declined to say what was lacking in the government plans.

In Washington, Teamster President Frank Fitzsimmons met with William E. Simon, head of the new Federal Energy Administration. Both men indicated they were optimistic major traffic tieups could be averted.

Fitzsimmons, who has not given support to the blockades, was scheduled to meet with President Nixon today.

The truckers who had been meeting with Transportation Secretary Claude Brinegar and other government officials said Friday night they were returning to their units.

The ICC plan to allow truckers to recover some of their profit margins was not firmed up immediately.

Directed to refinery level

U.S. to reveal fuel regulations

By LEE EGERSTROM
Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The White House's new energy czar told state legislative leaders Friday that fuel allocation regulations for all forms of crude oil will be announced Wednesday with modifications in the proposed regulations for distillate fuels.

California Assemblyman Charles Warren, chairman of the special energy task force for the National Legislative Conference, announced that he and representatives from 20 other states were told of the regulations and changes during a meeting Friday with William Simon.

Warren said that Simon and other energy planners the state officials met with would not discuss what the crude oil regulations or the changes in the distillate fuels would be.

HOWEVER, White House energy sources said Friday that the regulations will be directed at the refinery level to assure control of production to meet allocation requirements.

Warren, a Los Angeles Democrat, said at a news conference called after a day of meetings with energy officials, that he was given indications that states will be involved in allocating fuel supplies and that states will be given designated amounts to spread to needy service and utility institutions.

Warren told newsmen after the first of two days of meetings that, "I'm terribly depressed. I'm depressed by the lack of information and I sense they (energy planners) are grossly understating the seriousness of the fuel problem."

Warren added that the best analysts in California believe the state is from 20 to 30 per cent short of its energy needs, even though the administration officials he met with were still using 17 1/2 per cent as the national average.

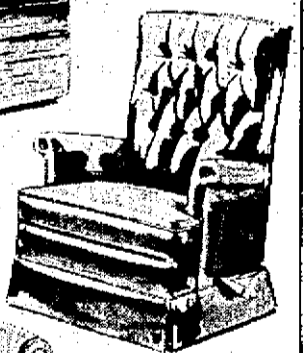

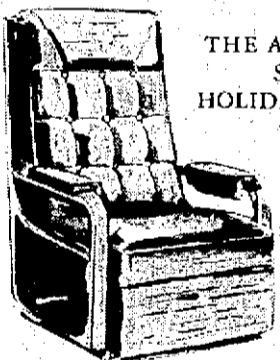

During a brief meeting with Simon, Warren said, the California lawmaker stressed the seriousness of supply shortages for the plastics industry in Southern California, about the dwindling supplies of fuel that are threatening the closing of utility plants in Glendale, Pasadena, Burbank and Los Angeles power and light, and that a Long Beach stevedore company has already been stopped by lack of fuel from unloading ships.

While complaining that there was little helpful information from the energy officials in Washington, Warren said he did receive indications that states will be given fuel supplies for allocation which could be used by the power companies.

The Southern California Mormon Choir presents its annual "Messiah," Dec. 22, in the Pavilion at the Music Center. Soloists will be Mary O'Brien, Pauline Law, Dean Wilder and Robert Hale.

Earl Wilson

Crazy man ... but not dressy

NEW YORK—I could have died
When only I went black-tied.

I got myself into one of those corners. I figured it was so dressy, I had to overhaul the dinner jacket or get it patched up. I got there and Paul Newman was in a turtleneck that was once white, and probably also wearing long Johns. And this is at the Blue Angel, formerly the Casino Russe on E. 54th St., and they are trying to bring back night life in New York with a spectacular French show called "Zou," which means "Crazy"—and everybody loves it as of this moment.

"Didn't nobody tell you nothin' about this not bein' no black-tie affair?" a millionaire playwright friend asked me. I mentioned that I had spoken with Paula Prentiss (pregnant), Mrs. Tony Perkins (pregnant) and numerous other ladies such as Jennifer O'Neill about hastening their work in order for us all to go see "Zou" more often.

THE show is loud and big and girlish and also boyish because we heard

I'd Rather Be Light

Today's Best Laugh: Mary Blackstock wonders if queens can still have subjects beheaded who annoy them: "And until Capt. Mark Phillips finds out, he won't tell any mother-in-law jokes."

Wish I'd Said That: Larry Rhine notes that some banks now guarantee maximum interest for four years ... which is more than a marriage license can do.

Remembered Quote: "The world changes so fast that you couldn't be wrong all the time if you tried."

Geoff Edwards of the "Treasure Hunt" TV says that when he hands the $25,000 prize check to a winner there's trembling, gasping, tears, hysteria: "And that's just the sponsor's reaction!" That's earl, brother.

from a pretty irresponsible source that the Mae West, Marilyn Monroe and Dinah Shore impersonations are done by males. It was hard to tell when the girls were girling and boys were also girling. It gives New York a touch of old but still fashionable nightclub nonsense.

Elliott Gould was said to have been totin' Dyan Cannon home, and there were people like former Mayor Wagner and Phyllis Cerf, all soppin' up the hospitality of Donald Brooks, of fashion, who gave a big party in honor of the producer Peter Jackson. The males who did the impersonations of the great sex symbols are a story in themselves. I am not going to swear that anybody is a specific impersonator but you can see it for yourself once you see the beautiful show.

Somebody yelled at an impersonator of Bette Midler that he (or she) "is better than Bette Midler."

JOHN Wayne upon getting an award at the National Football Foundation Awards dinner said the reason he changed his name from Marion Morrison was "the studio wanted to give me Doris Day parts, and I didn't want to make love to Rock Hudson."

Vice President Gerald Ford kidded that he gave all papers but one to Senate investigators—a letter from a football fan who saw him play once at the University of Michigan and asked him, "You were so bad, were you doped or were you trying to throw the game?"

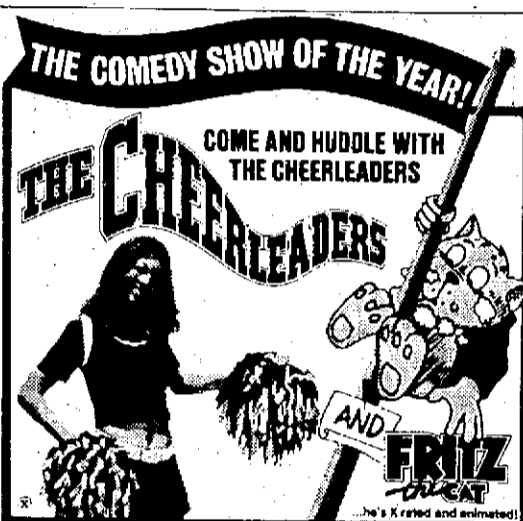

THE MIDNIGHT EARL Secret Stuff: A hot new film star is being called "the new Marlon Brando"—not for his acting, but because in his pic he mumbles ... Jackie Gleason's preparing for a January start on his NBC dramatic shows ("and if one of them hits right, a series will spin off") ... MGM's "Westworld" has already grossed $10 million—almost ten times its cost.

Steve Steinlauf, producer of the off-B'way hit "The Moonchildren" will go back to college—he's 19 ... Danny Thomas got a 50G advance for his album "Tomorrow Belongs to You" (and it went to the St. Jude Hospital Fund)

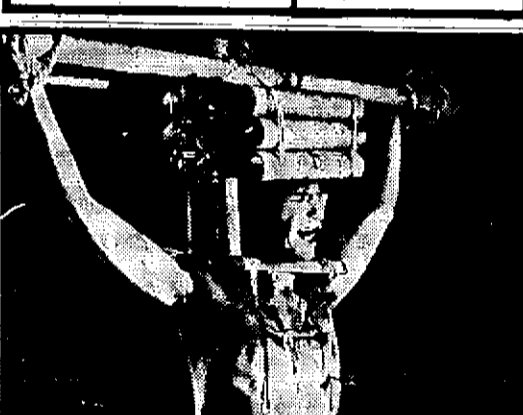

Flowery Chapeau

Actress Sophia Loren wears a flowery hat and a Mona Lisa smile during filming of "The Voyage" in Palermo, Italy recently. The film, based on a short story by Italian author-playwright Luigi Pirandello, is directed by Vittorio De Sica.

Fuel lack said delaying mails

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal officials said Friday that fuel shortages are crimping mail delivery schedules in some parts of the country as the busy holiday season approaches.

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen said despite current uncertainty over the full impact of the fuel shortage and airline flight cutbacks, the Postal Service still intends to have its offices cleaned of mail by Christmas eve.

E. V. Dorsey, assistant postmaster general, said "clean" means the post offices will have delivered all the mail which came to the post offices early that morning.

Klassen and other officials at a news conference said there is still a strong likelihood that mail will be slowed, however.

Joseph Jones, the official responsible for mail movement, said failures to obtain fuel for postal vehicles has already caused delays in Oklahoma City, Atlanta, Oakland, Northern Michigan, Connecticut and other areas where operators have not been able to make their runs when originally scheduled.

Klassen said further delays are possible if the Postal Service is forced to divert mail usually carried by commercial air flights to rail. He noted that the airlines have begun reducing flights by 10 per cent.

Post trucks testing mixture of gas, water

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. Postal Service announced Thursday it is testing a scientist's claim that cars can run efficiently on a mixture of gasoline and water.

A spokesman said the mixture has been tried in four mail delivery trucks, but he added that the energy-saving technique apparently works as well for cars as for trucks. Possible mixtures range from 15 per cent up to 30 per cent water, in the planned tests, he said.

The idea was originated by professor Walter J. Ewbank of the University of Oklahoma's aerospace, mechanical and nuclear engineering department, the postal service said.

While the motor fuel industry has sought better combustion and greater engine efficiency by using richer higher octane fuels, Ewbank reasoned that mixing in water would be better. "It's more efficient and alot cheaper," Ewbank said, adding that it produces less pollution and saves gas.

In research under way since 1965, Ewbank has developed an emulsifying technique to hold the water in suspension in the gasoline. Otherwise, the lighter gasoline would float to the top.

Ewbank said an easy adjustment of the carburetor, which takes about 15 minutes, also is required to use the mixture.

Frank M. Sommerkamp, director of delivery services for the postal service, said plans are afoot for "large-scale expansion of the program once feasibility is clearly demonstrated."

The trucks used to test the gasoline and water mixtures are two quarter-ton residential delivery trucks and two half-ton urban delivery vans in service at Norman, Okla.

The postal service said that during the first four-month trial period, which began Nov. 29, trucks are being run on a mixture using 15 per cent water. After that, they will be returned to normal operation for a month to determine whether they have been damaged. A final trial period will follow, using a mixture with 30 per cent water.

Steps to take for a fire-safe Yule tree

Warmth and brightness are welcome to Yuletide, unless they come from a fire which has broken out in some family's Christmas tree.

With the holiday season comes increased hazard of fires from unsafe home decoration, and the Long Beach Fire Department offers these tips to make the season safer.

When a person chooses a real tree, he should select a fresh, firm-needed one.

If the prices of the trees aren't enough to Scrooge the buyer into choosing a small one, safety considerations should. The larger the tree, the greater the hazard.

When the tree is taken home, the butt should be cut off at an angle, at least an inch above the original cut, and the tree stood in water until it goes into the house.

THE TREE should be installed in a sturdy, non-tip tree stand which contains water, firemen say. This helps prevent drying of the tree and reduces flammability. The water level in the stand should be checked daily.

In the house, the tree should be kept away from sources of heat such as fireplaces, heaters, hot air ducts and televisions.

Also, the tree should never be placed where it blocks passage into or out of a room.

As for flameproofing of natural trees, firemen warn that simple home solutions won't work.

"The only effective method of flameproofing a tree is to use, in sufficient quantity, products approved by the California State Fire Marshal's office," fire information officer Jack Emery says.

As for artificial trees, any plastic ones should be clearly marked as being made of slow-burning material.

Metallic trees pose no fire hazard, but do present dangers of electrical shock. "Never use lighting sets on this type of tree—use only indirect lighting," Emery says.

Trees with built-in electrical systems should carry the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label, Emery adds. "If not, don't use them," he says.

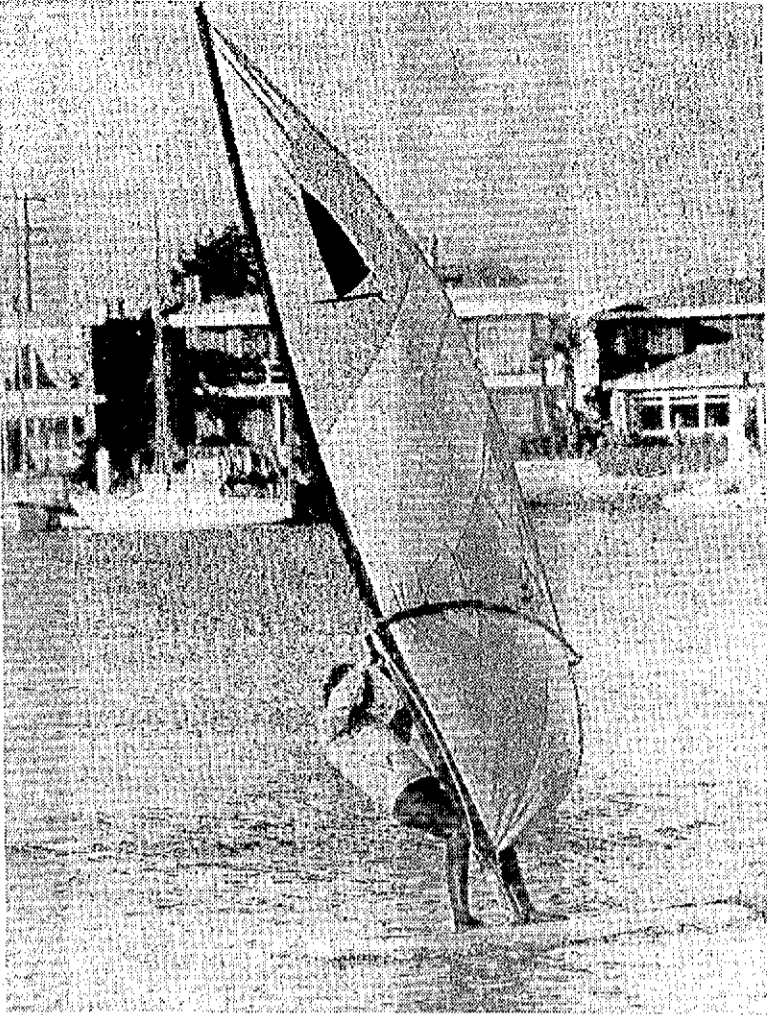

CHRISTMAS LIGHT sets should have UL approval, and if old sets are used the wiring should be carefully checked for worn insulation, loose bulb sockets or broken plugs.

Extension cords should be used sparingly, firemen say, and never run under rugs or through doorways.

When possible, light sets should be plugged into outlets located away from the tree.

Candles are another traditional feature of the Yule season which pose fire hazard. Matches and candles should be kept out of the reach of small children, firemen say, and polystyrene foam should never be used as candleholder material or in table or mantle decorations where candles are used.

Gift wrappings can pose fire danger, and should be disposed of promptly in metal trash containers. They should never be burned in the fireplace, firemen say.

20% of state yield Wilmington leading oil field in U.S.

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Taking on added significance because of the energy crisis, the Wilmington oil field continued in fiscal 1972-73 to be the No. 1 producing field in the United States, according to the annual report of the Long Beach Department of Oil Properties.

Average daily production in the field was 188,979 barrels, which amounted to 20 per cent of all California oil production, Leonard W. Brock, city director of oil properties, said.

The tideland portion of the field, which Long Beach administers for the state, produced 132,812 barrels of oil daily, or 70 per cent of the Wilmington field's production, Brock said.

Net oil production decreased slightly during the year, but "far less than normal" for an already developed area, the report said.

CITY TIDELAND production was down only 1.3 per cent from the 1971-72 daily average of 134,640 barrels.

Because of "careful engineering and water flooding," more than three-fourths of the oil produced in the older portion of the field is waterflood oil, or oil which would not have been recovered without the injection program, Brock said.

Oil and gas revenues paid to the state exceeded $92 million during fiscal 1972-73, an increase of $28 million over the prior year, the report said.

State revenues from the Long Beach operations were almost doubled — from $45 million in fiscal 1971-72 to $83.8 million in fiscal 1972-73. This is more than 80 per cent of the state's total oil and gas revenues of $104.7 million for the past fiscal year.

The annual report noted a 25-cent increase in the price per barrel of crude oil from the Wilmington field, but called it "overdue," and added that although it was "a step in the right direction, there is a long way to go before this disparity is corrected."

IT ALSO POINTED out that a selloff of oil from city properties in the Townlot area brought a high bid of 66 cents over the posted price and an additional $1.1 million to the city.

A similar selloff of 12.5 per cent of crude oil from tideland parcels brought high bids ranging from 26.5 to 32.7 cents per barrel over the posted price, which will mean $100,000 additional monthly to the state.

Coastal chiefs have light agenda Monday

By KRIS DULANEY
Staff Writer

Regional coastal conservation commissioners will tackle a relatively light agenda Monday when they meet at 9 a.m. in the sixth-floor board room at the Long Beach Harbor Department, 925 Harbor Plaza Drive.

Only 53 permit and claim of exemption applications, including 10 to be considered together on the consent calendar, are listed on the agenda. Of those, only nine deal with Long Beach area projects.

Heading that list are public hearings for a claim of exemption for a 4-story, 52-unit apartment building at 201 Bayshore Ave., Long Beach, by the Allison Company and a proposal by the City of Huntington Beach to construct a sanitary sewer system and water supply facilities at the Sunset Heights Assessment District 7201.

Three other Huntington Beach projects — construction of a 2-story, 4-unit apartment building at 215 18th St.; construction of a 2-story duplex at 610 14th St.; and construction of an 11-unit apartment building at 19th and Acacia streets — are also scheduled to receive full public hearings by the commission.

Seal Beach projects to be considered include construction of a 5-unit apartment building at 311 Ocean Ave.; construction of a 3-story, single-family residence at 80 A St.; and construction of a 3-story, single-family residence at A-11 Surfside Colony.

Scheduled on the consent calendar is an application for construction of a 2-story duplex at 610 14th St., Huntington Beach.

Ground broken for building at LBSU

Ground was broken for a $5,175,000 administration building on the Long Beach State University campus Friday.

The two-story building, scheduled for completion by next September, will house college offices such as admissions, records, summer sessions, financial aids and dean of students.

The building will be located in the center of campus between the University Union and West Campus Drive.

"The new building will offer a new front door to the public near Bellflower Boulevard," said Jon Regnier, LBSU's director of physical planning.

"It's location will also minimize pedestrian traffic on campus."

College administrative offices are now located on Seventh Street at the south end of campus, a long walk from most classrooms and other campus services.

Architects for the new building ... the 39th permanent structure on campus ... are Chaix, Johnson & Associates. Ray Wilson Co. is the general contractor.

State Sen. George Deukmejian helped University President Stephen Horn and other college officials break ground Friday.

'Christmas Program praised Happening' at Compton

A community showcase day at 12:30 p.m. Sunday in the choral room and music patio at Compton College will feature a play for children, an original drama, dance and ballet numbers and the Youth Philharmonic Orchestra performing "Wonderful Sounds of Christmas."

The play for children by the Robeson Players will be "Christmas Happening."

The theater arts department will present the original drama "The Past is Past."

Tartar Dance Ensemble will perform "Climbin' Up the Mountain Children" and "Soon Ah' Will Be Done."

UFW benefit slated

The Democratic Alternative will hold a Christmas benefit for the United Farm Workers tonight at 7:30 at 2310 Carroll Park South.

Senior center anniversary

The first anniversary of the Central Area Senior Citizens Service Center was celebrated Friday with a luncheon and exhibit of craft work by participants at the California Recreation Center, 1550 California Ave.

Councilman James H. Wilson, who noted that he grew up in the area and used to play at the old California Center clubhouse, was guest speaker.

WILSON pointed out that the program was the first for senior citizens in the central area, and commended the sponsoring Recreation Department and the residents of the area for their support.

He said he especially was pleased at the way the youngsters who use the center and the elderly participants of the Senior Citizens Service Center program had gotten along together.

The program, directed by Mrs. Lillian Tillie, offers a variety of crafts, sewing, crocheting, knitting and cooking instruction, as well as a program of social dancing, choral classes, fashion shows, outings, and a daily free-lunch program, sponsored by Senior Opportunities Services.

Members of the Senior Citizens Chorus provided entertainment at the anniversary program, and samples of craft work by those participating were shown.

BEULAH McLENDON, left, and Nellie Sanders show Councilman James H. Wilson articles made by persons participating in crafts projects at the Central Area Senior Citizens Service Center.

L.B. bus firm asks U.S. oil

A public hearing on an application by the Long Beach Public Transportation Co. for federal funds to purchase various capital items will be held by the Bureau of Franchises at 9:30 a.m. Monday in the City Hall council chamber.

The company will seek funds from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration to buy 32 new 45-passenger diesel buses, material to rebuild engines of 85 buses to comply with clean-air standards and 120 radio sets and equipment.

Funds also will be used to purchase maintenance-reducing chrome-plated wheel covers for 85 buses, two batteries for electric buses, a spare bus engine, one supervisor's car, and a surveillance camera system.

Louis M. Possner, chief engineer of the Bureau of Franchises, said the new buses would permit the company to retire older vehicles and enable the company to provide additional services.

The radio equipment will provide two-way communications with buses, permitting en route schedule changes or route deviations. It will also increase security for drivers. The radios will be equipped with selective call, silent emergency alarm, mechanical alarm and vehicle identification features.

All of the buses and the supervisor's automobile to be purchased will contain up-to-date air-pollution control devices, Possner said.

The public hearing is required by the UMTA for all such grant applications, Possner explained.

THE DAILY INVESTOR
It's age of credit

By DON CAMPBELL

Add this to your list of obsolete homilies: "Neither a borrower nor a lender be."

Oddly enough — in this giddy age of instant credit and "painless" borrowing — there are still those who make-do on a cash basis, but the temptations to do otherwise are enormous.

Q: I AM 55 years old, earn $18,000 a year, own my home with no debts, and my only obligation is the education of my two children — I have one child in college and the next one will enter college next year and I will need additional income at that time.

I have been investing in three mutual funds over the years and, in addition, have been purchasing one closed-end fund for the past six years through a monthly investment plan. My total investment in all four funds is worth approximately $49,000 at today's prices.

I am currently investing $100 a month in each of the above funds and, in addition, have $10,000 in a savings and loan drawing 7½ per cent interest.

I have $143,000 in life insurance on which I could borrow approximately $25,000 at 5 per cent. Would it be advisable to borrow on my life insurance and take part of my savings to invest in either high grade corporate bonds paying 8 to 9 per cent or in REITs paying 10 per cent to 11 per cent?

A: I don't see anything particularly immoral, or even unsafe, in what you propose since your insurance program — even if you never get around to repaying the $25,000 — seems pretty complete. The thing that baffles me a bit, however, is the necessity for it.

You already have one child in college and there's no evidence that this is imposing much of a financial hardship on you since you are continuing to invest $400 a month.

Why would one more child in college put you in such a bind? You have no debts, no mortgage payments and, in all respects, sound very securely situated, so what's the prob-

Borrowing $25,000 on your life insurance and investing it at 8 per cent

(and paying 5 per cent interest on it) would net you only about $750 a year, and I can't believe that you're in that bad shape when all you have to do to meet your new financial obligations is to reduce the rate at which you are tucking money away.

The heavens aren't going to fall in, you know, if — for a few years — you slow down this pace and reduce your monthly investments from $400 to $200.

Sure, it's expensive to send a child to college and twice as expensive to send two, but as long as you're taking one in stride, two doesn't sound like a back-breaker.

(Campbell welcomes letters, but can answer only representative questions of general interest usable in this column.)

Don't be lulled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "People, not fabrics, cause fires," says Chairman Robert W. Blanchard of the Textile Industry Product Safety Committee. "We will give a high priority to improving retardant fabrics but the public should not be lulled into a false sense of security by these fabrics. Japan attack recalled

PEARL HARBOR (UPI) — Survivors of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor tossed floral wreaths upon the quiet waters Friday and remembered the falling bombs and the terror of 32 years ago.

The United States plunged into World War II on Dec. 7, 1941, a date President Franklin D. Roosevelt said "will live in infamy."

The first bombs fell at 7:55 a.m. the huge harbor became an inferno as wave after wave of Japanese planes roared over, their rising sun insignia glinting in the early morning sunlight.

The sneak attack took 2,335 American lives and severely crippled the Pacific fleet. More than 1,100 of the dead remain to this day entombed in the sunken hull of the battleship Arizona.

The passage of 32 years has eased the bitterness, but Pearl Harbor is not forgotten. A group of Americans bowed their heads in prayer Friday at the exact moment of the Japanese attack.

The waters were placid as Capt. Robert C. Fenning, a Navy chaplain from Portland, Ore., began the observance aboard the Arizona Memorial, which has a low center to symbolize the sagging spirits of Dec. 7, 1941 and high sides to show the rise of the U.S. afterwards.

WORLD WAR II Air Force crew are buried with full honors Friday at Arlington National Cemetery

WWII air crew buried 28 years after crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Old sorrows were revived Friday as the remains of five World War II airmen were buried together at Arlington National Cemetery 28 years after their bomber vanished into an Asian jungle.

Their burial, in a single casket, took on added poignancy because it fell on the anniversary of the 1941 Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor which propelled the United States into World War II.

The pain seemed to return slowly as three mothers, a father, a former wife and other survivors of the airmen listened to the words of a Roman Catholic and a Protestant chaplain.

Tears flowed by the time the service ended at the grave amid the mournful notes of taps and a hymn played by the Army band.

The five men, all in their 20s, were reported missing on Aug. 7, 1945, only a week before the end of the war. Their B24 bomber was on a gasoline hauling mission from India to China flying over dangerous mountains called the "hump" in monsoon weather.

They were never seen or heard from again. Their remains were discovered along with the wreckage of their four engine plane in dense jungle high in the mountains south of Imphal, India.

With the help of "dog tags" found at the scene, records, and laboratory examination, it was decided the remains were those of:

Flight officer Richard H. Franken, the pilot, Maintown, Wis., 1st Lt. James W. Cantrell, copilot, Mexia, Tex.; Flight Officer Francis P. Yskaitis, navigator, Brockton, Mass.; S. Sgt. Harvey E. Brockmiller, Waseca, Minn., and Sgt. William J. Cannady, Wayne, Mich.

Because of the conditions of the remains, it was decided to bury them together.

THE casket was carried to the grave on a black draped gun carriage drawn by six matched gray horses.

After the service ended with 30 sharp volleys of rifle fire, the 36 surviving relatives walked slowly away.

Mrs. Stella Yskaitis, mother of one of the five, paused briefly and placed her hand gently on the casket before she turned away.

Later she told a reporter that receiving news that her son's remains had been found brought back something of the shock she felt more than a quarter century ago when she was first notified he was missing.

"It was just as though it was happening now," she said.

MRS. Hazel Haviland, former wife of Cannady, said "it's like going back 25 years in your life."

Two of those who attended the service had their own memories.

They were Leo Dufrechou of New Orleans, who had been copilot on that same crew, and John G. Bolton, of Boxford, Mass., who was an armorer with the B24 group.

Neither made the fatal trip and now they are graying middle aged men. Neither seemed to want to talk much about their memories.

AF offers enlistment drawers

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — The latest indication of benevolence creeping into today's modern volunteer military was announced by the Air Force Friday.

The people who run the Air Force's only boot camp are letting recruits have a choice of two types of underwear.

"The Air Force, to make a short story brief, is now letting its male recruits have their choice of underdrawers," an announcement from Lackland AFB said.

"Since it became a separate service 26 years ago, the Air Force offered male trainees just one kind of underdrawers — baggy boxers. The only choice recruits had was in sizes small, medium or large — hardly a fitting tradition for today's progressive airman."

"This week, after jockeying with the idea for several months, the Air Force added briefs to its shorts supply. Every male trainee gets his choice of briefs or boxers."

Although they only come in basic white, the service said the briefs are available in nine sizes and they cost the same 67 cents a pair as the old baggy boxers do.

Christmas concerts, church parties set

On the second Sunday of Advent, rich programs of pre-Christmas music are to be found in many Long Beach churches. These programs have been called to our attention:

The choirs of Bethany Lutheran, 4644 Clark Ave., will present their Christmas Tea of the United Presbyterian Women's Association 2 p.m. in Covenant Presbyterian, Third and Atlantic.

New pastor

Rev. Sidney Cooper will be installed as new pastor of Trinity Christian Reformed Church of Artesia, 18706 Grayland Ave., Sunday at 3 p.m. A native of New Jersey, where he comes from a pastoralist in North Haledon, he is a graduate of Calvin College and Seminary at Grand Rapids, Mich. He comes to Artesia with wife Janice and six children.

Says banks drop

S. Africa loans

The president of the National Council of Churches reported Friday that four out of ten American banks involved in a recent series of loans to the "racist South African government" are pulling out.

Rev. Dr. W. Sterling Cary named the four as: Merchants National Bank and Trust Co. of Indianapolis, City National Bank of Detroit, Central National Bank of Chicago, and Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. in North Carolina.

Popular Bellflower pastor From foul line to pulpit, saga of top woman athlete

By LES RODNEY

Nancy Jane Kelly, for starters, is the daughter of an Orangeman father and a Roman Catholic mother. She grew up in tough north Philadelphia, scrapped her way to Temple University, where she became the city's most famed woman athlete, high scorer of the championship women's basketball team and of America's winning team in the world tournament, star softball pitcher and member of the national field hockey team. She went on to teach health and physical education at Gettysburg College, and returned to the ghettos of her native city as educator and coach.

Now a Southern Californian, she still shoots 99 per cent from the foul line, teaches a sports officiating class at Cerritos College, referees Long Beach State and high school women's basketball.

Oh yes, she is also the Rev. Nancy Kelly, associate pastor Bellflower Church of the Nazarene.

IN A CHAT last week, the vivacious Rev. Kelly, with plenty of Philadelphia left in her rapid-fire speech, talked about the path that led an Irish-American girl from Wilt Chamberlain's playgrounds who scored 37 of Temple's 46 points in a city championship game

All Christmas Eve and Christmas day observances will be included in the issue of Saturday, Dec. 22 if received by mail no later than Thursday morning, Dec. 20.

"I didn't miss one single shot that day," she marvels in retrospect to pastor of a Bible-centered church in suburban Bellflower.

"I didn't grow up in the church," she says. "any church. While I was at Gettysburg College, I was back in Philly one weekend in February, 1958 for a Temple-Gettysburg game, and got a ride back with a Gettysburg prof. On the way back, we stopped at her home in Trenton, and she took me to the services in her church."

It was the beginning of a new life for Nancy Kelly. Back in Gettysburg, she and her professor friend started a new church. And in 1962, she began the process of seeking ordination from the Church of the Nazarene, the denomination she had been introduced to. (It is a Holiness church formed in 1908 in the belief that it carries on the traditions of John Wesley and early Methodism, stressing entire sanctification.) Up to that time, the Nazarenes had ordained only one woman, though utilizing their talents on various levels.

Was it a sudden conversion experience for Miss Kelly? Do Nazarenes believe that one becomes a Christian in a moment of knowing Jesus, being "born again?"

"We believe a change takes place, yes," was the reply. "The best way I can explain it for myself is that God gets control, I am a blank piece of paper. It's His plan, not like some dashboard, a hit or miss thing."

FROM GETTYSBURG, she continued, "I felt led to go back into the Philadelphia inner-city. I worked with a city scholarship program, training teachers, it was hard to get teachers to go into the ghetto. We had 5,000 students in the program, mostly black, also Jewish and Italian in that neighborhood. She shook her head. "We had troubles!"

Miss Kelly had a philosophy about ghetto youngsters. "These were kids who had no self-image, no positive one. It is her conviction that one has to deal with such youngsters as if they are truly important, and to mean it."

As the minister's mind roamed back over the Philadelphia scene, the irrepressible sportswoman jumped to the fore, and she smiled.

"I had a girls basketball team, all black, you should have seen them. There were a couple of twins, 5-8, and they could touch the rim. Only way I could tell 'em apart was by the numbers I gave them. What a team. We took the city."

Rev. Kelly is aware that the church has not always been in the forefront in practicing Christian brotherhood toward those whose skin color is different. She says her own philosophy on race is not fancy, just "a person is a person." It's often hard to get that simple fact across to those who haven't known other peoples first hand, she observes, with charity toward those who have not shared her experiences and who may harbor generalized prejudices. On the local church level, she believes a genuine, unmistakable spirit of Christian openness can bring results.

Working for her ordination, Miss Kelly did a lot of traveling, speaking in churches, especially to young people. She has the essential requirement for a great teacher, in or out of the church. "I love kids," she says.

SHE CAME out west to study in Nazarene-affiliated Pasadena College, and spent some time as youth minister in Long Beach First Nazarene and the Bellflower church, which is going about as far as you can go without ordination. Fortunately, everything was up to date in Kansas City, headquarters for the Nazarene denomination. The Rev. Nancy Kelly was ordained.

In her role as associate pastor of the church at 17200 Clark Ave., she has basically the same responsibilities as Pastor Wallace Renegar, she explains. "He preaches on Sunday, I have the youth church on Thursday, we both counsel. I take part in the Sunday service, reading Scripture." She handled the Sunday pulpit for the month of August.

And how does she like it in Bellflower?

"Oh, I love it. There's a peace about it, not that everything goes right, but an inner peace."

How has she been received by the congregation?

She shrugged. "They knew me as a youth director. I would say no problems."

One problem mentioned in connection with woman ministers is a possible reluctance of young men seeking counsel to confide their personal troubles to a member of the opposite sex (though why this should be more of a problem than young women and male ministers isn't clear.)

Rev. Kelly reports she hasn't encountered this problem. With what some might consider unfair self-deprecation, she says, "I'm not exactly a knockout, and being up in my thirties, well, it's easier for a young man to come to me with his marital problems or whatever."

DOES HER background

as athlete lend something to her ministry?

"I think so. One thing, in sports you can't be phony. You do or you don't." She paused, perhaps grappling with a modest way of saying she is good at what she does now as she was good on the playing fields.

"The Lord has given me insights about saying the right things. My background also helps. We Kellys had hard times, we were poor, I think that develops some understanding."

On a lighter level, she relates, when the occasion calls for it she enjoys telling some young men "OK, let's go out on the basketball court and see who's best."

"I'll be in my street clothes, but I'll still hit practically 100 per cent from the foul line area. It's a gift I've been given." And this is more than 15 years since she exchanged shot for shot in the Temple gym with Guy Rodgers, All-American who went on to pro stardom.

As an official, her dual identification results in some funny moments as girls react to her being Rev. Kelly. In a station wagon traveling to Rio Hondo for a game, she recalls, one girl said, "It's good to have you along, do you give last rites?"

Another girl wanted to know if Rev. Kelly could be married. "I told her yes, I could, but I haven't been married." With a little twinkle she added, "I've been asked."

REV. KELLY'S experiences have given her a strong interest in the question of the place of women in Christian history. She is currently researching this, from the time of Jesus.

"The prejudices have been sad," she says. "History cries out; people cry out for correction. Even the image of women as athletes is so prejudiced."

A question about St. Paul's apparent male chauvinism in telling women to hold their silence in church and in other quotes, brought a strong response. "He has been taken completely out of context on this," she argues with animation. She is working up the Biblical data to support her thesis.

Rev. Kelly has no trouble with the Nazarene's traditional aversion to Hollywood movies. She feels the position is well vindicated by the content of many of today's films (though she hasn't checked them out herself.)

As for possible bad effects of movies on youngsters, she sees the church as having the best answer. "When you uplift the positive values of Christ," she says, "it HAS to look better than that stuff, that stuff is like vomit next to it."

Rev. Kelly also feels strongly, as do most theologically conservative Protestants, that the devil is at work today through the surge of interest in the occult, astrology, tarot card, mediums, etc. One positive fallout she sees: "It's easier to talk to kids about the Holy Spirit when they know the spirit world exists."

THE BELLFLOWER church, she relates, now has 375 in Sunday School, having almost doubled in size over the past several years.

To what does she attribute this growth?

Rev. Kelly is a cooperative-minded minister who took part with most other denominations in the Bellflower union Thanksgiving observance. But she has no

Southern splitoff church

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. (UPI) — Conservatives within the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. founded a new denomination this week and elected a leader who declared the group had raised "a fresh, clear banner" of Christianity.

The denomination is the Southern wing of Presbyterianism.

The new denomination is comprised of 75,000 worshippers from 275 churches in 14 southern and border states.

The 338 delegates, all of them men and all but one of them white, elected Jack Williamson of Greenville, Ala., moderator by acclamation. Williamson, a lawyer, had been temporary presiding officer.

He said the church "shall stand out distinctive in contrast to many false religious societies which bear his name."

The conservatives contend the one-million member Presbyterian Church in the U.S. has "stayed from the scriptures by taking liberal positions on abortion, divorce and other social issues and by agreeing to ordain women."

"This separation has forced division among families, friends and local congregations," Williamson said.

Basically fundamentalists, those within the new denomination believe in the authority of the Bible and the Virgin Birth. They say the Westminster Confession in 1648 should be the authoritative guide to the interpretation of scripture.

The liberals said there was nothing in the confession to prohibit the church from accepting new scientific knowledge or changing social customs.

The conservatives also opposed the proposed reunification of Southern Presbyterians with the larger northern Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

POSITIVE THINKING

by Norman Vincent Peale

You can if you think so

Way back, when I was in high school, I won the 100-yard dash. Of course I must admit that one reason I won was because my chief competitor was laid up with the flu. I've never been much of an athlete, but I've always been interested in sports and enjoy reading stories about the men and women who have become famous athletes.

Bob Richards, the one-time pole vaulter tells one of the most moving sports stories of them all. It begins with a boy named Charles Paddock, back in 1920, who went to a track coach one day and said "I want to be an Olympic champion. I want to be the world's fastest sprinter."

"Well, Charlie," the coach told him, "you can if you think you can. But more than that you will have to work, discipline yourself, live a clean life and believe you can make it. The secret of becoming a great sprinter is to develop your legs until they are like pistons. To get this kind of strength in your legs, you have to have it in your heart, in your mind. And when you get it, then you can pull up your knees until they hit your chest and drive like a locomotive on a railroad."

CHARLIE PADDOCK did go on to become an Olympic champion and the world's fastest sprinter. I once watched him run and I never saw legs move faster. It seemed sometimes that he almost flew through the air.

His fame brought him many speaking invitations. Once before a group of young people he spoke about what you can do with yourself through ambition and hard work. Then he suddenly looked about him and said, "Somewhere in this room maybe there is another Olympic champion, but if not in sports, at least in life. It's more important to be a champ in living."

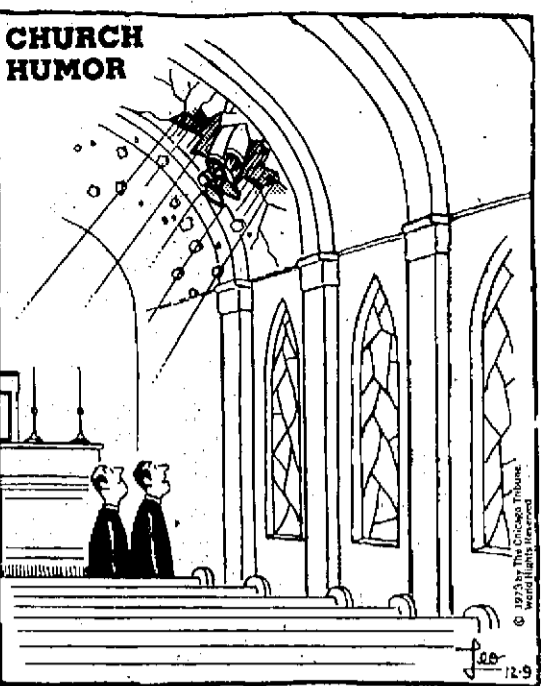

After the talk, a shy little spindly black boy came up and said "Mr. Paddock, you've done something to me. I would like to be an Olympic champion."

Paddock put his hand on the lad's shoulder and told him: "Son, you can if you think you can. But then you must add to that real hard work. Have a lot of faith. Give it all you have and discipline yourself."

And eventually the time came when that boy, whose name was Jesse Owens, won four Olympic championships. And he, also was asked to make speeches and, remembering the inspiration he had received from Charlie Paddock, he told one audience of youngsters: "Somewhere in this room I am sure there is another Olympic champion, if not in sports, at least in life."

Afterwards, a skinny little black boy came up to him, shook his hand, and told him exactly what he himself had told Charlie Paddock many years before. Owens looked at the boy and thought he had never seen a skinnier youngster; indeed, it turned out that the boy's nickname appropriately was "Bones". But, nevertheless, Owens said, "You can if you think you can, if you are willing to struggle, work hard and believe." And so, Harrison "Bones" Dillard went on to break Jesse Owens' Olympic record.

EACH OF these three great athletes had to struggle to achieve success and the happiness that came to them as a result of their outstanding achievements. And of course all of us must struggle if we wish to achieve real happiness. And struggle isn't bad, it's good. Struggle makes

ELIE WIESEL PRESENTED BY TEMPLE ISRAEL

Elie Wiesel, author of the best-selling "Beggars in Jerusalem" and other works on Jewish life from the Holocaust to today, will speak Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in Millikan High School Auditorium, presented by the Temple Israel Jubilee Committee as the beginning of 1974's celebration of the temple's 50th anniversary.

Tickets at $2 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens may be purchased in advance at the temple.

New senior church pastor

Rev. John Royal McNichols, who was minister of visitation under Rev. Dr. Hodge MacIvaine Eagleson, who died recently, has been appointed full time pastor of Moore Memorial United Methodist Church at Third and Linden, the church better known as the Senior Citizen Church.

McNichols held pastorate in Iowa before retiring there.

Spanish Mass for Guadalupe

The Virgin of Guadalupe Society of St. Lucy Catholic Church, 23rd Street and Santa Fe Avenue, will celebrate the anniversary of the apparition with a 6 a.m. Mass and Mananitas on Wednesday.

The Mass will be said in Spanish by Father Pedro Ruiz.

success and happiness all the sweeter.

So never give up struggling and dreaming. If you attain your dream, go after another and greater one. In the long run the greatest happiness in this world is making a man out of yourself. The greatest joy of all is in the struggling to attain some goal. And always remember - you can if you think you can.

50 years of service

Evangelical United Methodist Church, at 17th Street and Temple Avenue, will celebrate its 50th year of service on Sunday, with all former members, neighbors and friends invited to join.

The day's observance will begin at 9:30 with Mrs. Zella Coo in charge. Many past superintendents are expected.

Dr. O.E. Schafer, former district superintendent of the Southern California Conference, will speak at the 10:45 worship service, along with Pastor Wendell W. Jones and former ministers of the church.

A ham luncheon will be served at noon, followed by an extensive historical program of slides and pictures, with music and guests on the agenda.

N.Y. Catholics try advertising

"Father John O'Leary. If he's not in church, he's probably in jail," the advertisement declared in big type.

The newspaper and magazine ad, describing the work of a priest who counsels prisoners, is part of a $100,000 advertising campaign being launched by the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of New York to help find recruits for its shrinking priesthood.

The advertising effort is believed to be the first of such scope by any diocese in the nation. Its theme: "The New York priest. God knows what he does for a living."

"I'm sure that God does know it, but we're anxious for everyone else to know it."

REV. BRIDGETTE

'Showers of Blessings' at St. John

Rev. Ronnie Bridgette, a graduate of Poly High and Long Beach State, now a reading specialist for the ABC School District, will speak Sunday at the "Showers of Blessings Deliverance Service" starting 7:30 p.m. in St. John Baptist Church, 10th Street and Olive Avenue.

The special services are held each second and fourth Sunday evening. Guest artists this Sunday are soloist Cleveland Miller, and the Long Beach Choral Ensemble.

Rev. Bridgette, who began preaching at 18, says of these services: "They will bring a closer Christian union with all faiths, denominations, and ethnic groups through Christian fellowship, to serve God and man together."

Add children service Sunday

A children's church has been added to the services at Christian Center, 5200 Atlantic Ave., reports the pastor, Rev. R. E. Reid.

Directed by Miss Gracie Hailey, it is held simultaneously with the adult 10:30 a.m. worship on Sunday.

Starr King builds

Ground will be broken Sunday for a new Christian education building at Starr King Community United Presbyterian Church, 132 E. Artesia Blvd., following the 11 a.m. service. The right of way for the Artesia Freeway took the old building.

Acquitted of rape charges Suits against doctor due in court

By JOHN SHEEHAN
Staff Writer

Trial proceedings are pending in civil actions brought by three women against a 47-year-old Long Beach plastic surgeon acquitted of raping them while they were his patients.

The three suits filed earlier this year against Dr. Robert C. Kelleher ask a total of $6½ million damages for a variety of charges alleging malpractice, breach of contract, negligence, assault and battery, and rape.

Kelleher was acquitted of criminal rape charges Oct. 9 after a Long Beach Superior Court jury failed to reach a decision. The three women charged that Kelleher molested and raped them as they were under sedation following cosmetic surgery.

None of the women was identified in newspaper accounts of the criminal trial, but court records reveal the civil actions were filed by Judy Phillips, who asks judgment of $3½ million; Carol A. Fraser, who asks $1½ million; and Jeri Swift, asking $1 million damages.

Superior Court Judge Roy Brown Thursday dismissed part of the suit filed by Mrs. Phillips, who is a 32-year-old former model turned state under-cover agent.

Brown dismissed the rape portion of the suit — which asked $2 million — after Kelleher filed countersuit claiming the statute of limitations for rape had expired.

Mrs. Phillips alleged Kelleher raped her in Sept., 1971, but didn't file civil action until April 18. The statute demands charges of rape be brought within one year of discovery of the alleged crime.

The balance of the Phillips suit is unresolved. It charges Kelleher with malpractice, assault and battery and loss of income as the suit also alleges that one of Mrs. Phillips' breasts became infected as a result of a silicone uplift device implanted by the surgeon at her request.

The suit further alleges Mrs. Phillips suffered great bodily and emotional damage and partial physical disability. The balance of the suit asks for a settlement of $1½ million.

Mrs. Fraser's suit, filed Sept. 18, names Kelleher and 20 John Does. Filing against a John Doe is a common civil practice designed to thwart a defendant's attempt to assume another identity. It also allows plaintiffs to discover other parties to the same action in the future.

Mrs. Fraser's suit alleges she suffered damage to her nose and chin from Kelleher's surgery and that he failed to warn her of the consequences of the operation. The suit also alleges she has been unable to work her usual job as a "supervisor" for Los Angeles County.

The suit said she continued to need medical attention and that Kelleher "ravished" her with his hands and kisses during the operation.

Kelleher's attorney answered the suit Nov. 27 by calling it an "unverified complaint." The attorney said the surgery was adequately explained to the plaintiff before she consented.

Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Fraser are represented by the same attorney, D.F. Pellegrino, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Swift's suit was first of the three and was filed March 13. It names Kelleher, Kelleher, Inc., a professional corporation, and 10 John Does. Mrs. Swift claims breach of Kelleher's professional medical obligation, alleging he was incompetent and failed to warn her of surgical consequences.

On April 10, Mrs. Swift's attorney, Robert Billips, of Beverly Hills, asked for a partial dismissal against Kelleher only. Kelleher's corporation and the 10 John Does could still be liable in an adverse judgment.

No trial date has been set in any of the actions.

Yorty denies stock influenced deal

United Press International

In a bitter exchange Friday with a Los Angeles city council investigative committee, former Mayor Sam Yorty admitted he once owned 1,000 shares of Occidental Petroleum Corp. stock but he said it had no influence on a controversial land swap.

Yorty insisted his support of Occidental's application for a two-acre drilling site at Pacific Palisades had nothing to do with his friendship with Dr. Armand Hammer, Occidental president, or his stock.

He said his stock holdings were "miniscule" since Occidental has 55 million shares outstanding and said he thought the stock had a value of "about $10,000."

C. Stephen Howard, the committee's chief counsel, however, claimed the stock was worth between $35,000 and $100,000.

Yorty said that was "ridiculous."

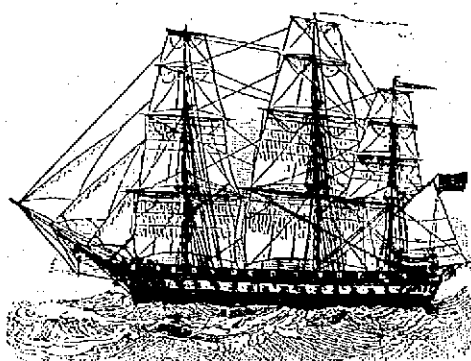

The former mayor again denied he had been offered a job by Occidental.

When asked if his son, Bill, is an employee of Occidental, Yorty curtly replied, "That's none of your business."

49ers rebound, nip USF, 65-64

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — As it did Wednesday night, Long Beach gained experience Friday night, but this time the 49ers got a victory.

The 49ers got a 17-foot jumper from Rick Abernethy with 1:23 remaining and then survived two missed free throws to stun the University of San Francisco, 65-64.

"People think we're an experienced team because we have four starters returning," said coach Lute Olson after the 49ers had rebounded from Wednesday's 73-71 loss at Colorado.

"But we're not experienced in the kind of situations we faced tonight," continued Olson. "Last year, when Long Beach got in trouble, it went to Ed Ratleff."

"But Ratleff is gone now, and the fans wonder who we'll go to when the going gets tough."

Friday night, Olson, an advocate of balance, went to Abernethy, Glenn McDonald, Kyle Jackson, Roscoe and Clifton Pondexter, Bob Gross, Leonard Gray and Floyd Heaton and all contributed to the triumph over a team that beat the 49ers, 77-67, in the NCAA regionals last March.

It would be tough to determine who contributed more.

McDonald scored eight points and had six rebounds, but more importantly, shadowed the Dons' all-America guard, Phil Smith, limiting him to six field goals in 21 attempts and 14 points.

"We feel Glenn is the best defensive guard in the country," said Olson, "and Smith is probably the best offensive guard. In a matchup like that, Glenn is going to win some and so is Phil."

Fortunately for the 49ers, McDonald won the last two.

Smith forced a 25-footer after Abernethy's clutch basket and Gray went up to take the rebound away from Kevin Restani with 41 seconds to play.

Long Beach ran the clock down to 20 seconds before calling time out and, after USF had also called for a break, Smith fouled Gray with 18 seconds left.

Following another USF time out, Gray missed the first shot of a one-and-one, but Clifton outjumped Eric Fernsten for the ball and tipped it back to Gray, who flipped it to Abernethy.

But Abernethy missed the one-and-one and San Francisco had the ball with 11 seconds to play.

"We're not going to miss many of those one-and-ones," said Olson, who also wondered why intentional two-shot fouls had not been called since the Dons were obviously trying to foul the 49ers.

"If there was any additional pressure on Leonard and Rick it was because they wanted to win so badly," continued Olson, "and they're the two guys I'd pick to shoot if we were in the same situation again."

Smith took San Francisco's shot, a hurried, driving attempt across the key and Clifton was about 13 feet in the air, waiting for it, when the ball came down short of the basket.

The contest was what one would expect of teams ranked side-by-side in wire service polls, with the lead changing hands six times before Abernethy made his game-winning basket.

The most damaging event the 49ers had to overcome came with 7:13 to play, when leading 59-58, they were hit with a technical for having six players in the game.

"It was a matter of someone reporting into the game and then not telling the man he was replacing," said Olson.

John Boro missed the free throw, but Richard Johnson drove through the entire 49er defense for a basket that put the Dons on top, 61-60.

Long Beach regained the advantage on a pair of Gray free throws, but Fernsten made it 62-61 when he was given a bucket on a goaltending call.

Abernethy regained the advantage, 63-62, on a 16-footer, but Restani matched that at 4:33, and when Fernsten blocked a Clifton shot with 3:44 remaining the Dons called time out, then went into a delay offense.

Dons praise 49ers

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO — Bob Gaillard looked haggard and drawn. This one hurt, badly.

Pre-season hopes had been high and the University of San Francisco basketball coach had longed for national recognition and a rematch with UCLA in the NCAA regionals.

But the Dons, ranked seventh in the nation by Sports Illustrated in the giddy days of November, had sustained their second defeat in three games Friday night, 65-64, to Long Beach State.

"Give them credit," said Gaillard, his hands slipping over his eyes. "They (the 49ers) played very well and they came up with the super play when they had to."

HE WAS referring to Clifton Pondexter's block of Kevin Restani's layin with 1:43 remaining, an attempt the Dons had maneuvered nearly two minutes to achieve.

"No, it wasn't goaltending," he responded to a question. "It wasn't a foul, either. It was a great block."

Gaillard turned to the subject of Pondexter, a 6-8 freshman.

"He needs a little more experience," said the USF coach, "but he's sure got everything else he needs."

Gaillard bemoaned the fact that the Dons hadn't been able to capitalize on two missed one-and-one free situations in the last 18 seconds.

First the Dons fouled the 49ers' Leonard Gray with 18 seconds remaining, and Long Beach State called for a timeout. After one minute, Gaillard signaled for a second timeout.

"We wanted to put additional pressure on Gray," said the USF coach. "We wanted to give him time to think about the situation."

Gray missed, and five seconds later, Rick Abernethy also failed to cash in on a one-and-one opportunity.

"We had the chances," said Gaillard, pounding his left fist into his right hand. "It's been a tough week."

MONDAY, the Dons lost an overtime game to Stanford.

"Long Beach is better than Stanford," he said. "No question about it. I think they play better together without Ed Ratleff."

"I'm not knocking Ratleff. I just think last year they became too dependent upon him. Now they all are in the act. They're a much better rebounding team than last year, too."

Dons center Eric Fernsten echoed the opinion of his coach.

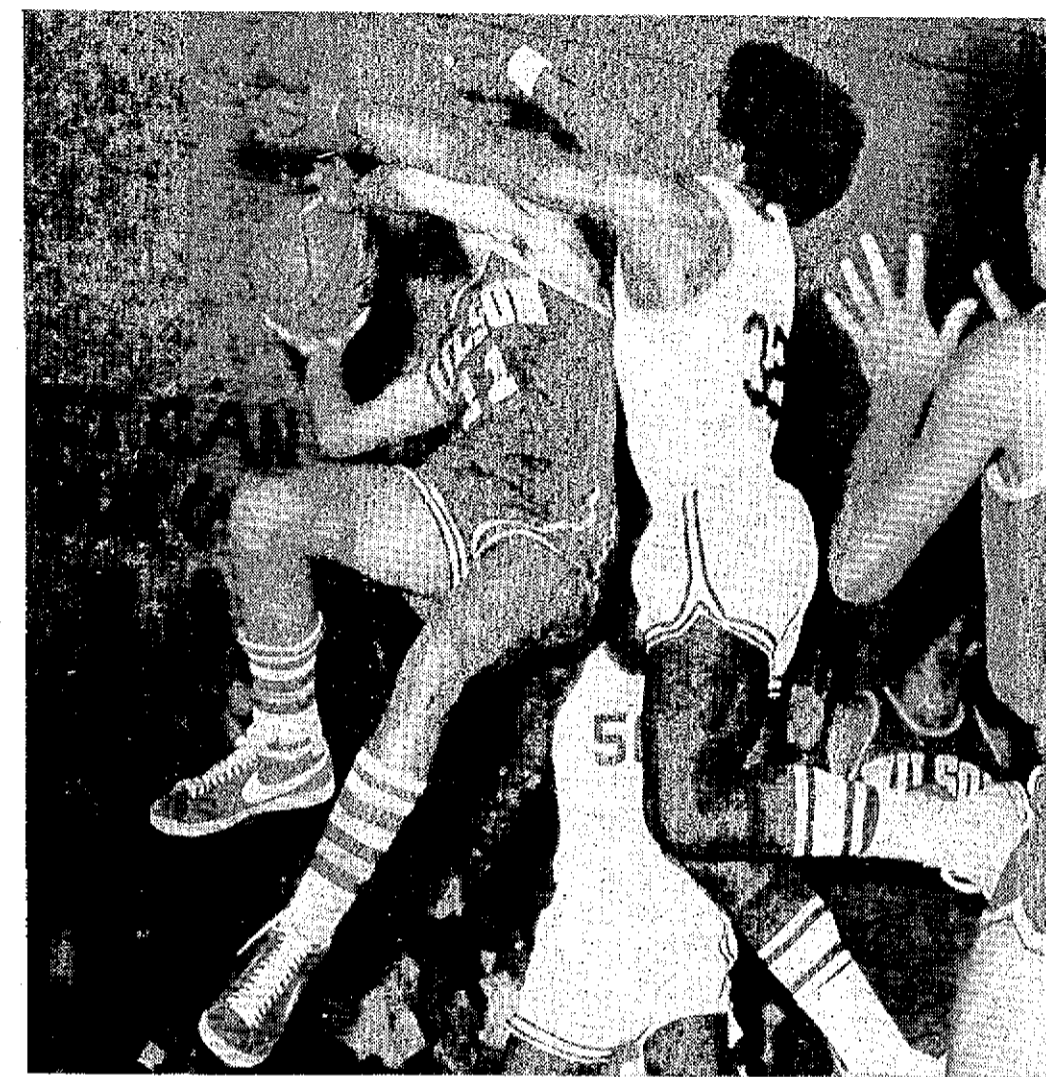

"Long Beach State is very physical," he said. "I think they're tougher than last year."

Gaillard stood by, still shaking his head.

"Now we go to Providence," he sighed. "Then to Seton Hall. They're pretty good, too. Then we play Maryland in the Cable Car Classic."

"Good luck," said a newsmen.

Gaillard managed a slight grin. "We'll need it."

Cerritos holds off LBCC five, 80-77

By JIM MANGAN

Cerritos held off a strong Long Beach City College finish Friday night on its own floor to take an 80-77 win in a game which was doubly frustrating to the Vikings.

First, the team fought back from an 11-point halftime deficit to catch and briefly pass the Falcons with 9:09 left on the clock, but was unable to hold the advantage in the face of the winners' strong 1-2-2 zone press.

Then coach Bill Fraser argued determinedly, but with no more luck than his players, that the officials were misinterpreting the rules in Cerritos' failure to come out of its zone to challenge the ball when on defense in a tie game.

Fraser protested the game with about two minutes remaining and the count knotted at 75-all, but when asked after the game who he was protesting to, replied, "It beats me. My wife, I guess."

"If this had been a league game I could protest to the league commissioner, but—," and he left the sentence unfinished.

At the heart of the matter was what seemed to be the officials' failure to call a technical on the Falcons for laying back in their very effective zone instead of initiating the action which Fraser felt was necessary if his team was to penetrate.

behind by 10 points six minutes into the second half, Fraser did some radical substituting, with Carthus Reedus in the lead.

The freshman from Poly scored all his nine points in a five minute span, six of them coming in succession as he and Cal Wulfsberg teamed in a 10-1 blitz which brought the Vikings from a 67-58 deficit with 12:54 remaining to a 68-68 tie 3½ minutes later.

Reedus then scored a charity loss which put his team out ahead briefly.

Sonics boom Lakers

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

At a time when they face the toughest part of their schedule, the Lakers did an el foldo Friday night and lost to the lowly Seattle Sonics, 115-111, at the Forum.

It was the first time in Seattle's seven-year history that it had beaten the Lakers in Los Angeles, spanning 20 games, and this victory was strictly a gift.

The Lakers held a nine-point lead in the final 6½ minutes, then watched helplessly as Seattle's "no-name" offense rattled off 13 consecutive points and held on the rest of the way.

Milt Williams, picked up on waivers earlier this season, scored 22 points for the Sonics and his runningmate, Don (Slick) Watts, a free agent, netted 14 in a shockingly fine performance for a pair of unheralded guards.

Spencer Haywood emerged as the hero for the Sonics and did it despite missing 17 of 26 field goal attempts. But he hit eight free throws in the last quarter in a game in which free throwing was the rule rather than the exception.

No less than six players fouled out, including four Lakers — Connie Hawkins, Mel Counts, Stan Love and Elmore Smith. With forwards Bill Bridges and Happy Hairston out with injuries, it left the Lakers with four

Angels, Cubs, Sox battle to bitter end

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

HOUSTON — Baseball's trading deadline expired precisely at midnight Friday.

But the Angels were not dead.

But 1:40 later they were. Harry Dalton finally called it quits and prepared to head back home today when all efforts to make a deal failed.

One hour after the supposed deadline, Dalton was still locked in a huddle with the Chicago Cubs in a desperate effort to lure a reluctant Ron Santo away from the Windy City.

During the bizarre, seemingly endless day which involved countless phone calls, private huddles and cloak-and-dagger sequences, Dalton also made an effort to land third baseman Bill Melton from the Chicago White Sox and had last-second talks with Montreal.

Chicago sources said that Cub owner Phil Wrigley was insisting to his general manager John Holland that Santo be traded.

Dalton's longest day began at 1:45 a.m. Friday morning when he received permission from Cub owner Phil Wrigley to speak with Santo.

After a quick night's sleep, the Angel general manager contacted Santo in Chicago. Santo thanked Dalton for his interest during a 30-minute conversation, but reiterated his previous stand insisting he did not want to leave Chicago.

Wrigley, becoming a dominant figure in the 11th hour discussions, was the next to speak to Santo and the veteran infielder asked — some say pleaded with his owner to send him across town to the Chicago White Sox.

This development brought Sox general manager Roland Hemond into the picture and triggered a flurry of late afternoon plane cancellations.

Friday's trades

NEW YORK YANKEES-KANSAS CITY—Royals traded outfielder Lou Piniella and pitcher Ken Wright to Yankees for pitcher Lindy McDaniel.

ST. LOUIS-BOSTON—Cardinals traded pitchers Reggie Cleveland and Diego Segui and infielder Terry Hughes to Red Sox for pitchers John Curtis, Lynn Nelson and Mike Gorman.

PITTSBURGH-CLEVELAND—Pirates traded pitcher Bob Johnson to Indians for outfielder Cesar Tovar to Rangers.

PHILADELPHIA-TEXAS—Phillies sold infielder-outfielder Cesar Tovar to Rangers.

PHILADELPHIA-BALTIMORE—Orioles sold pitcher Eddie Wall to Phillies.

TEXAS-NEW YORK YANKEES—Rangers sent former Dodger infielder-catcher Bill Sudakis to Yankees.

MONTEAL-MILWAUKEE—Expos sold outfielder-first baseman Felipe Alou to Brewers.

party were to have checked out of their hotel at 3:15 p.m. but 15 minutes prior to their scheduled departure Dalton, scouting director Walter Shannon and scout Al Kubiiski cancelled their flights.

Moments later, Hemond did the same.

The three clubs immediately huddled in closed session. With Santo desiring to relocate on the South Side of Chicago, Dalton made a pitch for Sox third baseman Bill Melton.

Hemond, seeking to satisfy the Cubs, produced a list of four names and told the Cubs to select three. At 8:30, the triangular discussions adjourned for lunch, resuming 45 minutes later.

At 10:30 Hemond left the meeting and headed for his winter residence in California, claiming that he could not make the Cubs happy, even with the addition of a fifth player to his list.

Dalton, meanwhile, was attempting to cook up a belated deal with general manager Jim Fanning of the Montreal Expos, explaining that this transaction was partially contingent upon acquiring the services of either Santo or Melton.

Prior to receiving Wrigley's permission to talk to Santo, Dalton suggested to commissioner Bowie Kuhn that a special 24-hour extension be granted beyond the midnight trading deadline.

His request was turned down.

BRIEFLY: Harry Dalton's suggestion to provide an additional month of intra-league trading (May 15 - June 15) fell on deaf ears ... He will likely offer a new proposal at next year's winter meetings in New Orleans for an extra 2-week period, March 16 - April 1 ... The American League's pinch-runner proposal never received an airing and the National League decided to wait another year before acting on the AL's designated hitter experiment ... After digesting Charlie Finley's antics at the World Series, the baseball rulesmakers issued an amendment stating no player substitutions may be made once the Series has begun ... Discussion was held on a proposal to stage the All-star game in early September instead of the present mid-July ... Anaheim apparently lost its bid to host the Series has begun ... Both National and American League seasons will open Thursday, April 4. Houston at Cincinnati and Philadelphia at Washington will inaugurate the NL slate while Oakland will play at Texas in the AL opener.

guards in the lineup for the final two minutes. Watts and Williams fouled out for the Sonics, forcing coach Bill Russell to use an injured guard, Dick Snyder. Another ailing guard, Mahdi Abdul Rahman, was not in uniform and John Brisker is in Russell's doghouse.

The Lakers, who risk first place in Oakland to night against Golden State, committed 30 ball-control errors, five more than the Sonics. Combined with 69 fouls, the game ranks as one of the most forgettable in Laker history.

Jerry West was about the only player who tried to be artistic. He scored 27 points and stole the ball 10 times, a season high in the NBA. But even Jerry missed six free throws, including two in the clutch.

The Lakers overcame a 10-point third period deficit to assume a 101-92 lead with 6:47 remaining. There didn't seem to be any way they could lose against the makeshift Sonics, but they did.

Seattle promptly ran off 13 consecutive points, six on free throws by Hayward, and what chance the Lakers had of retaking the lead vanished when Smith and Hawkins fouled out moments later.

Love played center for awhile and then rookie Kermit Washington was pressed into duty. Rusty from inactivity, he committed two fouls and an offensive charge in the waning minutes.

The closest the Lakers came in the last 90 seconds was three points and Gail Goodrich was called for traveling.

The Lakers return to the Forum to face Capital on Sunday, then go on the road to meet Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago. After that, Boston and Milwaukee come to the Forum.

Meets Dominguez

Jordan trims Wilson, 77-74

By RICK ARTHUR Staff Writer

Top-seeded Jordan High will face second-seeded Dominguez tonight at 8:15 for the championship of the Lakewood basketball tournament.

The undefeated Panthers, once again keyed by the 1-2 knockout punch of Larry Hudson and James Hardy, disposed of Moore League rival Wilson, 77-74, before an overflow crowd of 1,300 Friday night to earn a spot in the title game for the second year in a row.

Dominguez ran past host Lakewood, 85-70, in the other semifinal contest. With one minute remaining in a ragged first period, T.J. Walker and Hardy each sank eight-footers to put Jordan ahead, 18-15 at the buzzer.

The Panthers then blitzed their City rival, 22-11, during the first six minutes of the second quarter for a 40-28 margin — a deficit the dedicated Bruins never did completely overcome.

Hudson, all-City player of the year as a junior last season, hit 13 of 19 field goals and 8 of 11 free throws to top all scorers with 34 points. In addition, the 6-6 college prospect grabbed 14 rebounds.

Intimidating 8-9 center Hardy scaled 15 rebounds and added 20 points. Tom Caserman led the losers with 33 points and 16 rebounds in an heroic, desperate effort to spur his team from behind.

St. Paul stunned

By DENNIS BROSTERHOUS

ENCINO — Crespi High, in its first year of CIF, 4-A competition, snapped a 24-game St. Paul win streak by surprising the No. 1 ranked Swordsmen 7-3 Friday night at Birmingham High.

The Swordsmen took the ball on their 21 with three minutes remaining and marked 76 yards in 16 plays, consuming seven minutes. The drive was halted on the Crespi three and Ed Luther booted a 20-yard field goal.

The play which turned the fortunes for Crespi occurred on a third and six situation. Quarterback Bob Kettles, throwing as he was being tackled, found halfback Walt Steele, who ran the ball to the Crespi 47.

Four player later Steele ran the ball 18 yards to the one yard line. From there, Kettles completed the drive with a quarterback sneak with only 1:40 remaining.

St. John Bosco tumbles, 34-19

By KEN PIVERNETZ Staff Writer

Crescenta Valley High took most of the bite out of St. John Bosco's 'Junkyard Dogs' defense and overwhelmed the Braves 34-19 Friday night in Bellflower.

The CIF, 3-A semifinal playoff game was anything but a defensive struggle as was anticipated.

The schools ran up more than 750 yards total offense in a wide-open affair that turned out to be a showcase for the talents of Falcon running backs Mark Miller and Al Stale.

Miller carried the ball 28 times for 182 yards, caught two passes for 16 yards and a touchdown, then throw a 30-yard TD pass to John Swonger that put the game out of reach in the fourth quarter.

Stale, a fullback-linebacker, carried 22 times for 161 yards and two scores, converted after four of the five touchdowns and played a stellar game on defense.

Anaheim toppled

Mike Hill raced 97 yards with a kickoff return Friday night, and Denis Sproul passed for two touchdowns and ran for one more to lead Los Altos past Anaheim, 34-20 in a CIF 4-A semifinal contest at Cerritos College.

Sproul guided the Conquerors with touchdown tosses to Mike Tanner and John Benton. His seven-yard touchdown run came in the fourth quarter. The Senior finished with 166 yards in 17 completions. He attempted 28.

Los Altos will meet Crespi at the Coliseum Friday. Crespi defeated No. 1 St. Paul, 7-3 to advance to the finals.

Graves scored on the first play of the fourth quarter to narrow the margin to 28-19 and still leave some doubt about the outcome.

Crescenta Valley then took the ensuing kickoff and drove 41 yards to the Rosco 15. But on first down the Falcons were called for having an illegal receiver downfield.

Rams 13-point choice Monday night Bears are catastrophe, but Giants worse

By RICH ROBERTS
Staff Writer

The New York Giants are in the land of the Rams, where seldom is heard a disparaging word, unless it concerns the visiting team.

If they need inspiration for Monday night's game at the Coliseum, the Giants won't lack material for their bulletin board.

But they'd better rent it from Foster and Kleiser.

The Giants, a fluke 6-0 in preseason, come to town with a worse record (2-9-1) than the dispirited Bears who feel formidably before the champions of the NFC West last week in Chicago.

The Rams are favored by 13 points, and it is noteworthy that the home club had beaten the spread in every Monday night TV game this season until Miami struggled to a 30-26 win over Pittsburgh this week.

That, too, is dismissed as "a mathematical fluke (without) logic or rationale" by Mort Olshan, whose forecasting expertise is published in this paper, but there is little reason to believe that the Rams won't measure up to the confidence of the bookmakers.

It's true that Minnesota is having its problems since clinching the NFC Central — for shame, Vikings! — and it's true that Ram coach Chuck Knox has diverted advance scout Jack Fulkner from his normal course.

The Rams play Cleveland next Sunday but Faulkner will be at Dallas watching the Cowboys play Washington, one of whom the Rams will meet in the playoffs Dec. 22 or 23. Personnel director Mark Duncan will be at Cincinnati.

But the Rams also are on the track of several achievements — a club record 12 wins, 1,000 yards for Lawrence McCutcheon, a league record 2,961 yards by all rushers combined, a club record of fewer than 196 points allowed by the defense — and are not expected to allow the Giants many liberties.

The Rams' and Giants' prospects crossed somewhere early in the season — one rising, the other falling.

New York posted the NFL's only 6-0 preseason record and had in its fold two of '72 college football's brightest physical specimens — linebacker Brad Van Pelt from Michigan State and defensive tackle Rich Glover from Nebraska.

There also was quarterback Norm

Snead, who led the NFL in passing last year, and running back Ron Johnson, Alex's more amiable brother who ran for 1,182 yards and caught 45 passes for 451, scoring an NFC-leading 14 touchdowns.

But Van Pelt popped a groin muscle and went inactive, Glover wound up on the taxi squad when he couldn't heat out star '72 rookie John Mendenhall, Johnson missed 2½ games with a bruised calf and Snead lost his winning touch and then his job.

The quarterback Monday night will be Randy Johnson, who walked out for a week early in the campaign after the Giants' miserable start.

"If I'd been the quarterback," he was heard to say, "we'd be 4-0 instead of 1-2-1."

But Johnson had a change of heart when he reached Floriday and phoned coach Alex Webster, who checked with the squad and reported that it was forgiven, come home.

The Giants' problems also have included disabling injuries. Glover is now starting at tackle since Mendenhall went down for knee surgery five weeks ago. Others lost for the season were kickoff returners Rocky Thompson and Eldridge Smith, offensive tackle Joe Taffoni and reserve Dave Tipton.

But Johnson is back, moving up among the leaders in total offense again, and Van Pelt is getting in his licks kicking off and running headlong downfield to bust the wedge.

Of course, the Giants don't kick off very often.

Horst object of Cleveland 'psych' mail

Edited by RICH ROBERTS

Rams fans remember Horst Muhlmann. He's the Cincinnati Bengals' sidwinding kicker who missed a couple of chip shots to let the Rams off the hook with a 15-12 victory last year.

Muhlmann has established a reputation of kicking like clockwork off artificial turf but like a klutz off the real stuff.

"My average would be much better," he grumbles in his German accent, "if you took away those three I missed on that potato field in San Diego."

Muhlmann is on the spot again Sunday, but at least the mod sod at Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium will be in his favor when the Bengals engage the Cleveland Browns in their continuing struggle for playoff spots.

Browns fans have been trying to psyche out Horst, bombarding him with mail the last couple of weeks.

"It happens every year," he says. "They want me to worry."

What do they say, Horst?

"They say all kinds of crazy things. I don't even read them anymore. I just throw anything with Cleveland on it away."

SPECULATION is starting on which college superstar will be the pros' top draft pick in January, so it might be appropriate to see how the last one is doing.

That would be John Matuszak, the giant defensive tackle from the U. of Tampa for whom the Houston Oilers spurned Bert Jones, the celebrated quarterback from LSU.

This assessment is offered by Kansas City's veteran offensive tackle, Jim Tyrer:

"When you play the Oilers you expect a tough game from Elvin Bethea and you always get it. He's Houston's best lineman. But Matuszak is something.

"He's fortunate to be with a team like Houston, where they're not reluctant to play him. With a championship team they'd be afraid to send him out there because of the mistakes he might make."

Matuszak, 6-7 and 282, "tries to muscle you," Tyrer says. "He doesn't get to the passer much, but he's learning by playing, not practicing. A year from now he'll have the finesse to go with that great strength."

"It's the hardest thing in the world for a big guy to have to add finesse. But our Buck Buchanan did it. So can Matuszak."

NOTABLE QUOTES:

San Francisco safety Mel Phillips, who was handed football by Philadelphia's Charles Young after TD catch: "He's big and he's bad but he's not the best. He'll probably get his butt kicked before the year's out."

St. Louis guard Tom Banks, commenting on "cheap shots" in game "Hell, it was like playing the Bears."

Cincinnati coach Paul Brown, after 27-0 upset of Minnesota: "It's hard to play football after you've clinched your division. Be generous to them."

AROUND THE LEAGUE: The Denver Broncos will be rooting hard for Oakland to beat Kansas City today. If the Chiefs sweep their last two games — the last is at home against San Diego — they'd get the AFC West title because of a better record within the division, despite what the Broncos do Sunday at San Diego or at Oakland next week. The AFC Central looks like the best bet to provide the conference's "wild card" entry in the playoffs because of better overall records. . . . O. J. SIMPSON's rushing record of 1,863. He has already equalled Brown's record of nine 100-yard games. . . . Leaders in early balloting for the Wheeling Sports Federation's NFL rookies of the year — this is the one sanctioned by the Pro Football Hall of Fame — are Minnesota running back CHUCK FOREMAN in the National Conference and Oakland punter RAY GUY in the American. Former Long Beach State player TERRY METCALFE is eighth in the NFC voting. No Ram is mentioned. New England's SAM CUNNINGHAM, ex-USC, is fourth in the AFC. Sam's team leads the Patriots in rushing with 469 yards. . . . Cincinnati's shutout of Minnesota last week clipped Viking kicker FRED COX's string of having scored in 151 consecutive games.

THIS WEEK'S ANGLES:

MINNESOTA (10-2) AT GREEN BAY (4-6-2) — Vikings need to get back on track before playoffs.

KANSAS CITY (6-4-2) AT OAKLAND (7-4-1) — Chiefs won earlier match, 16-3, have only San Diego remaining in way of title.

CLEVELAND (7-3-2) AT CINCINNATI (8-4) — Browns always seem to make playoffs, but win here appears a "must." Won earlier, 17-10.

ST. LOUIS (3-8-1) AT ATLANTA (8-4) — Falcons must win and win big to grab NFC "wild card."

WASHINGTON (9-3) AT DALLAS (8-4) — Cowboy QB Roger Staubach injured in first game; Redskins won it, 14-7, when reliever Craig Morton threw interception, second of two "skin TDs" in final 3:33. Staubach healthy now.

HOUSTON (11-1) AT PITTSBURGH (8-4) — Oilers have inside track for No. 1 draft pick again, won't blow it now.

NEW ENGLAND (5-7) AT BUFFALO (7-5) — O.J. set NFL rushing record of 250 yards against Pats first time; Bills fighting for AFC wild card, too.

DENVER (6-4-2) AT SAN DIEGO (2-9-1) — Broncos can clinch first winning season ever, but need help from Oakland for title.

MIAMI (11-1) AT BALTIMORE (2-10) — Colts haven't scored on Dolphins in last 18 quarters; all champs need is a Garo Yepremian field goal.

N.Y. JETS (4-8) AT PHILADELPHIA (4-7-1) — Roman Gabriel-Joe Namath aerial duel.

SAN FRANCISCO (5-7) AT NEW ORLEANS (4-8) — Saints, whipped 40-0 at S.F. earlier, must win to avoid cellar again.

CHICAGO (3-9) AT DETROIT (5-6-1) — Lions appear to have more pride, poise going.

Monday Night

N.Y. GIANTS (2-9-1) AT RAMS (10-2) — Letdown unlikely after title clincher; Rams chasing records until playoffs.

GAME OF WEEK Cowboys 20, Redskins 13

The Redskins won the first meeting, 14-7, at Washington. But it's close to playoff time and the Cowboys' vets are always rougher when the money is on the table. Same can't be said for Skins and George Allen — coached teams, even though Washington was a Super Bowl finalist last season. Dallas victory would throw NFC East into tie with both clubs still alive for "wild card" selection to playoffs win, lose or tie.

Unitas activated, to play Sunday against Broncos

SAN DIEGO — Veteran Johnny Unitas was activated Friday by the San Diego Chargers after sitting out eight games in the National Football League with a shoulder injury.

The 40-year-old quarterback acquired from Baltimore this year will probably play Sunday against

L.A. semifinal grid playoffs

Carson and Gardena High are only one game away from a second meeting this season—one for the L.A. City football championship—when they play in semifinal playoff games today.

Carson, which lost to Gardena in Marine League play, meets North Hollywood at Birmingham High, 1:30 p.m. Gardena plays San Fernando at El Camino College, 1:30.

the visiting Denver Broncos, a Charger spokesman said. But rookie Dan Fouts has been tapped to start.

Unitas was injured at Pittsburgh in the Chargers' fourth game of the season.

VIKINGS — Placed running back Ed Marinaro (injured hip) on reserve list; activated defensive back Al Randolph.

JETS — Quarterback Joe Namath is listed as "possible" for Sunday's game against Eagles after incurring knee injury in practice.

REDSKINS — Quarterback Bill Klimer was released from hospital following treatment for stomach ailment. He is listed as probable for Sunday's game against Dallas but coach George Allen has indicated Sonny Jurgensen will start anyway.

CHARGERS — Wide receiver Jim Beirne, out recently by Houston Oilers, will join club in time for Sunday's game with Denver. Gary Garrison, who suffered a shoulder dislocation in the third game of the season, will start Sunday.

PACKERS — Activated quarterback Scott Hunter; placed punter Ron Widby on injured list.

RAIDERS — Announced reserve tight end Jeff Queen was sent home because of a leg injury. Queen responded by saying, "They told me to go home and not come back."

GIANTS — Devoted a story in San Francisco Examiner that club is negotiating with New England Patriots on a possible trade for Jim Plunkett. "I'll assure you that we have had no discussions regarding the acquisition of Jim Plunkett," said Giants' president Lou Spadai.

Raider win will KO Chiefs

Combined News Services

The Oakland Raiders and the Kansas City Chiefs will hold their own mini-playoff today as the National Football League's last two week-ends open with five play-off slots still undecided.

The Raiders jumped back into the American Conference West lead last week when they beat Houston and Kansas City was tied by Cleveland.

But a victory on national television today would serve only to knock the Chiefs out of contention. Still to be heard from are the Denver Broncos, who led the AFC West last week before being knocked off by Dallas.

The Broncos play San Diego Sunday and are big favorites and then face Oakland in the season finale next week. Should Kansas City defeat Oakland, the Chiefs would then be in a solid position to take the title, with San Diego (2-9-1) ending the season.

Kansas City, 6-4-2 and a half game behind Oakland, 7-4-1, won the first meeting between the two at Kansas City 16-3. The Raider offense has been sporadic lately and they've been living on their defense.

The Chiefs, who had Cleveland on the ropes last week, let them off and had to settle for a tie. The Browns scored two touchdowns in the last six minutes to earn a 20-20 tie.

The Raiders, a tough team down the stretch and even more so at home, are six-point favorites.

Every time the two rivals have met over the years — either in the old AFL or the AFC West since the merger — it never has been an easy struggle. Today's match figures to be as tough as any in the past.

"If we beat the Chiefs we will be in a helluva good spot," said Oakland coach John Madden on the eve of the game.

"The whole season comes down to this one game for us," said Kansas City coach Hank Stram. "It's a matter of being mentally tough enough to accept the challenge."

Mustangs rebound from season of turmoil SMU talented, but unprepared for UCLA

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

The value of preparedness will be severely tested tonight at Pauley Pavilion.

Maryland and coach Lefty Driesell prepared nearly four years to play UCLA and almost upset the top-ranked Bruins a week ago. SMU and coach Bob Prewitt will have had one full practice session to ready for John Wooden's wonders tonight.

Tip-off is at 8 o'clock, with the Bruin junior varsity hosting Long Beach City College in a 5:45 preliminary.

The Mustangs were originally scheduled to open their season at home last Thursday against Dallas Baptist, but the game was set back to the past Wednesday. That left Thursday for practice and Friday for travel.

SMU arrives in Westwood 2-1 on the season. Wins of 77-73 at Missouri and 79-67 against Dallas Baptist were sandwiched around a 77-61 defeat at Kansas State.

The Mustangs took command of Missouri by ripping off 10 successive points for a 73-61 lead in the closing minutes and then held on for dear life.

Six of those 10 points were scored by Ira Terrell, who totalled 28 for the evening along with 16 rebounds. Terrell, a 6-8, 190-pounder, was a unanimous all-Southwest Conference selection as a freshman last season.

The Dallas product led the SWC in rebounding

(14.1 a game) and shooting (57.2 per cent) while averaging 19.4 points an outing. But he resented playing center, believing he was better suited for a forward spot.

Therein lay one of a multitude of problems that faced Prewitt. Player cliques and even coaching cliques riddled his squad with dissension.

When the turmoil finally subsided, the club picked to win the SWC title had fallen to fifth place and two of Prewitt's aides had been dismissed.

The Mustangs have once again been chosen title material in a pre-season poll and Prewitt is confident he can keep this club together.

Terrell will help and so will Sam Hervey, the 6-7, 215-pound senior who finished second in the SWC scoring derby a year ago with a 21.5 average.

Zack Thiel, a 6-foot senior, was also caught in the eye of the hurricane last season. He had been the main cog in a guard-oriented offense until Terrell, an all-everything prep, and Hervey, an all-America JC transfer, arrived on campus.

Zack can still shoot the lights out, but the SMU backcourt was considered shaky until John Sagehorn transferred from Long Beach City. He's become the defensive dynamo.

It may take a lot more than Sagehorn's wizardry to stop the Bruins tonight. They're still smarting from the worst shooting exhibition in Pauley Pavilion history — 33.8 in holding off Maryland.

Wooden has settled on Bill Walton, Keith Wilkes, Dave Meyers and Tommy Curtis as starters. That leaves Pete Trgovich and Greg Lee to fight it out for the left wing berth.

It's likely Sagehorn will draw the assignment of guarding whoever plays that spot and; thus, he'll ultimately decide who'll get the Bruins' fifth starter.

ST. PAUL — Mike Walton set up George Morrison for the game-winning goal with just under eight minutes remaining Friday and provided an insurance goal into an empty net with 15 seconds to play as Minnesota topped Vancouver, 3-1. It was Walton's third empty-net goal of the season.

WINNIPEG — Winnipeg erupted for five unanswered goals in the second period, including two while short-handed, to crush Toronto, 4-1. Danny Johnson lashed twice as the Jets won their third in a row to pull into a tie with Houston for second place in the WHA West. Wayne Gretzky scored once and added two assists to tie Edmonton's Jim Harrison for the league scoring lead.

PUBLICIST QUILTS BECAUSE OF WILT

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Ans Dille is stepping out as publicist for the San Diego Conquistadors, complaining about the difficulties of working with Wilt Chamberlain, the coach.

"He's going around the country saying how lousy the San Diego media is," Dille said, "but when I try to make an appointment for him for him for someone, Wilt's always too busy. The guy is just impossible to work with."

The resignation was announced by Alex Groza, general manager of the American Basketball Ass. team.

Boyd hoping Trojans get together vs. Illini

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — (Special) — USC will attempt to salvage the second leg of its road trip today when it faces Illinois at Assembly Hall.

The Trojans, who started their basketball season so promisingly with a 100-76 victory over Arizona, dropped their first game on the road Wednesday night, falling to Utah, 90-66.

"We have to get our team together again," said USC coach Bob Boyd.

If predictions could be based on comparative scores, the Trojans would be lopsided favorites. The Illinois lost their season opener at Arizona, 101-80.

Today's game will be broadcast in Southern California on radio station KABC at 1 p.m. A tape-delayed telecast of the contest will be shown on Ch. 5 in Los Angeles at 6:05 p.m.

Offshore spectacle in Rum Run

The Rum Run, sponsored by the Pacific Offshore Powerboat Racing Assn., will get the starting flag at 9 a.m. today off Belmont Pier for the Malibu-and-return offshore race.

The field will race parallel to the beach, around the western-most oil island, past the Queen Mary and out the Queen's Gate where the boats will follow the coastline to Malibu and return following the same course. The best vantage points for spectators will be the end of the Belmont Pier and the Queen Mary.

Sponsored by the Pacific Offshore Powerboat Racing Assn. the cream of the West Coast's ocean racing fleet is expected to show up for this semi-annual event. Some of the more prominent boats that are expected to run are Barry McGowan's "Bonza", who was virtually unbeatable in 1973 in the sport class; Bob Sinclair's "Miss Castrol GTX", class 1 national champion for 1973; Bob Brown's "Ringleader"; Jim Ross's "Spectraquilar"; Ian Dunn's "Conqueror"; Paul Cook's "Kudu", potentially the fastest offshore boat in the world; Bill Dunsmore's "GGrey Whale"; Craig Spencer's "Way Behind."

For the first time in the history of the Rum Run series, national A.P.B.A. points will be awarded in the sport and production classes. All the other racers will compete for West Coast Championship points.

LBCC wrestling chances 'light'

By PAUL MCLEOD

Although the turnout for the 1973-74 Long Beach City College wrestling team has been described by staff members as "light," at least one man has a chance at the state title, while four others are steadily improving.

Of the five men remaining on the squad, the lightest, Glen Straus, wrestles in the 134 pound bracket, while the heaviest is John Liefer in the 168 category.

Last year, as a freshman, Liefer finished fifth in the state. Sophomore Liefer draws praise from coach Donald (Wayne) Skill as a "quiet person off the mat who plays a waiting game during his matches."

"John can be aggressive," continues Skill, "but he usually is a counter-wrestler. He sits back and waits to make his move."

Liefer began tournament competition with a first place finish during his last week's Southwest Tournament. Skill feels if he finishes first in today's Fullerton meet he will have a "good chance of gaining a state ranking."

Of those remaining wrestlers, Skill feels they are improving and should come into their own soon. "I would say that everybody here has a chance to move up in his own weight, but at the same time everybody we have been beaten. I keep telling them though, that the name of the game is improvement. The losses are good once in a while because the fellows become over confident."

Larry Pitts and Jim Dorsey wrestle in the two classes just below Liefer. Pitts handles the 142 pound weight, and Dorsey works eight pounds heavier at 150.

Straus is holding the 134 class by himself, but Skill would like to see him drop a weight into the 125 bracket. If he can make weight at 125 Bart Bertetto would step into the 134 class. Bertetto, however, is about six pounds over at 140.

Skill feels, however, that improper weight loss can harm an athlete. A coach and also an anatomy and physiology professor, Skill says, "I don't believe in plastics (sweat-shirts made of plastic to retain body heat and enable the athlete to lose water weight quickly). 'Dehydration is poor policy. It is really harmful, especially physiologically. I tell them that it's alright to eat, just don't eat as much.'"

Hockey briefs

KINGS—Goalie Gary Edwards was suspended for tonight's game with Atlanta and fined $200 for a stick-swinging incident with Vancouver's Bobby Schumacher on Tuesday lined $200 for a stick-swinging incident with Vancouver's Bobby Schumacher on Tuesday night. With Edwards suspended by NHL president Clarence Campbell for one game, the Kings called up 31-year-old goalie Rick Charro from Portland of the WHL to back up Robie Vachon.

Trevino sizzles with 65 to lead Mexican Open

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Lee Trevino surged back into contention with a seven-under-par 65 Friday as 23-year-old Ed Byman of Boulder, Colo., maintained a one-stroke lead in the 25th Mexican Open golf tournament, with 139 for 36 holes.

Trevino was in second place at 140, while Angel Gallardo of Spain shot a 72 to tie with Enrique Serna of Mexico in third place at 142 as a light drizzle slowed greens at Balla Vista Golf Club.

Nicklaus wins PGA race with $308,362

Jack Nicklaus, the swinging Bear from Columbus, Ohio, won the official Professional Golf Assn. 1973 money race with $308,362. Bruce Crampton was a distant second with $274,266.

100th position, John Lisler, ended the season with $24,601.

ABA highlights

SALT LAKE CITY—Zelma Beatty, Ron Boone and James Jones combined for 79 points to move within one-half game of the ABA West lead with a 121-113 victory over San Diego. Beatty had 30 points, Boone 27 and Jones 22. Leading 35-26 after one quarter, the Stars broke away to a 56-26 advantage only five minutes into the second quarter.

GREENSBORO—Billy Cunningham scored 37 points, including three technical foul free throws in the final eight seconds, as Carolina escaped Virginia, 115-110. The Squires led by as many as 16 points at one stage in the second period and held a 64-50 lead at intermission. With eight seconds to play and Carolina leading, 112-110, Virginia's Jim Watkins was called for charging. The Squires' bench exploded and picked up three technical fouls.

SAN ANTONIO—James Silas' 25 points led San Antonio to a 116-94 win over ABA West leader Denver. Rich Jones scored 24 points and Sven Nater 22. The Spurs held a 35-19 lead after one period.

UNIONDALE, N.Y.—Julius Erving's 29 points and eight rebounds paced New York to its seventh successive victory, 138-107 over Memphis. Erving also had six assists and four blocked shots in his 35 minutes of action. In one six-minute span, Dr. J. and Brian Taylor stole the ball seven times.

MARMADUKE

By Brad Anderson

Your birthday today: Today's Full Moon is a total eclipse visible about 8:34 p.m. in the Eastern United States, while the comet approaches the Sun, signifying a turning point in history, perhaps very subtly marked as yet so as to escape notice and headlines. Those born today are headed for destinations real or symbolic beyond any of their plans or expectations. The way ahead is complex, adventurous, exciting and apt to bring out the best and strongest features of character. Today's natives are enthusiastic, often gifted in music, literature or law.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Social activities do not turn out as planned. Be flexible -- willing to encounter strange ideas, surprising revelations about people you thought you knew well.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): However correct or consistent you may be, there is little to gain being dogmatic or argumentative. Go along with the views of family.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Let the day be one of serious contemplation. Associates, friends, neighbors seem determined to generate talk, noise. You needn't add to it.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You are concerned with finishing what you started. Just wrap it up without fancy touches or resolving side issues or worrying about acceptance by others.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): The temptation to stir up controversy only draws attention to yourself. Your activities with little notice if you follow your normal routine.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Express your deeper feelings for your loved ones. External conditions are loaded with all sorts of stressful influences, unfamiliar people.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Anything you try to put into action has a potential flaw which in times spoils its usefulness. Unbearable as it may seem, do little but rest now.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Be ready to help another. There seems a broad diversity of probable circumstances beyond general description; all of them stressful but exciting.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emotional expression turns out fluent and satisfying; other matters encounter limitations, special inconveniences or interruptions. Be of good cheer.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Find a simpler way of doing things that leaves your feelings planned in unfamiliar places. Going along with the plans of others involves significant compromise on your part.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Simple needs come first and are to be dealt with first. Only then should you begin trying to unravel technical details and getting things clear.

TeleVues Carol gets taped in Sydney Opera House

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

Tonight's "Carol Burnett Show" — airing from 10 to 11 on CBS (Channel 2) — was taped in the spectacular new multimillion-dollar Sydney Opera House in Sydney, Australia.

The first program for a worldwide TV audience to originate from the entertainment center, Carol's show was presented before 2,700 persons in the main concert hall a few days after its official opening by Queen Elizabeth II of England on Oct. 20.

Dinah Shore, had 10 men as guests on her "Dinah in Search of the Ideal Man" special last month, I guess it's only fair for him to have just women on his show.

Joining him in light conversation, improvisational sketches and songs will be, in addition to Carol, Nancy Dussault, Nanette Fabray, Jaye P. Morgan, Bernadette Peters, Jo Ann Pflug, Della Reese and Joyce Van Patten. They were selected not only for their talents but for their sense of humor.

I wonder if Dinah will show up.

Miss Burnett and her producer-husband Joe Hamilton attended opening night ceremonies at the giant Opera House along with the Queen, Prince Philip and other invited VIPs.

Comedian Tim Conway and ballet stars Edward Villella of the New York City Ballet and Lucette Aldous of the Australian Royal Ballet joined Miss Burnett, Harvey Korman, Vicki Lawrence and Lyle Waggoner as performers in the Sydney show that airs tonight.

COMEDIENNE Burnett will turn up later tonight in another show on another channel. She's one of eight women entertainers who are guests on "Burt and the Girls," third edition of "The Burt Reynolds Late Show," which will be presented on NBC (Channel 4) from 11:30 to 1.

Since Burt's girlfriend,

VINCE EDWARDS, who starred in the "Ben Casey" TV series, makes his feature film debut as a director with "Maneater," tonight's "ABC Suspense Movie" (Channel 7 at 8:30).

Edwards got his directorial start with his own "Ben Casey" series, but this is his first movie. He also wrote the screenplay with Marcus Demian and Jimmy Sangster.

In "Maneater," two couples vacationing in a motor home, which becomes disabled, are set up by an eccentric wild animal trainer as prey for his two ravenous tigers.

Ben Gazzara and Sheree North star as campers Nick and Gloria Baron and Richard Basehart as trainer Carl Brenner. Kip Niven and Laurette Spang play the other vacationing couple. Director Edwards is not in the cast.

"A JOURNEY to a Dream: San Simeon," a 60-minute special on Channel 5 at 8 p.m. Sunday, is the first KTLA entertainment special shot entirely from Channel 5's "teletop."

The program, narrated by Ricardo Montalban, features the scenic California coastline from Los Angeles to San Simeon from the vantage point of the copter. The flight follows the same route William Randolph Hearst and his guests traveled in the 1930s and '40s when they left Los Angeles in a caravan of limousines headed for Hearst's San Simeon Castle.

RODNEY ALLEN RIPPY is one of the guests on "Merv Griffin and the Christmas Kids," an hour-long special on Channel 11 at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Other children on the show are Ricky Segall of "The Partridge Family," Eric Scott and Mary Elizabeth McDonough of "The Waltons," Kim Richards from "Nanny and the Professor," guitar-

Who's Who of What's What.

Mary Ann Maskery is the very first anchorwoman (anchorpersion?) in Southern California. Which isn't too surprising when you consider she was the very first anchorwoman in the entire midwest before she came to KNBC.

Mary Ann has been a TV news reporter, a station editorial director and a staff writer for United Press International. She also holds a Masters Degree in Journalism.

The other anchor on the Weekend Newservice is Don Harris. He came to KNBC from Dallas, Texas where he gained quite a reputation for his investigative approach to newscasting. He also picked up a number of awards.

Don started in radio, worked his way to TV weatherman and then to on-the-air reporting. He anchored the news in Dallas for four years before coming west to KNBC.

Mary Ann and Don can be seen, along with Pat Downey and the sports, every Saturday and Sunday evening on KNBC Channel 4.

'Gimmicks' taking over Girlie calendars a thing of the past

Associated Press
The Marilyn Monroe nude pin-up calendar sold 50 million copies in the early 1950s, but those are bygone days. Calendar makers aren't looking for pretty girls anymore. "The pin-up calendar business is down," says Peter Gowland, well-known Los Angeles glamour photographer. "You go into a store now and you see fat people calendars, nude male calendars. All these gimmicks. Nobody is doing anything straight anymore."

Gowland does the photography for today's biggest-selling commercial pin-up calendar, put out by the Ridge Tool Co., of Elyria, Ohio. The calendar is about the last of its kind.

"PIN-UP calendars have kind of gone down the drain," says Bill Bloedel of Brown & Bigelow, St. Paul, Minn., the country's largest calendar maker. Ed Eberts of Shaw Barton Co., another big calendar firm in Cochocton, Ohio, agrees pin-up calendar sales are "way, way down."

At his studio in his rustic Pacific Palisades home, Gowland was recently at work on the Rigid Tool calendar, as the Ridge effort is called.

While the handsome, 57-year-old photographer laconically shot the pictures, his wife, Alice, bustled around, brushing hair, suggesting poses, sewing bikinis, making sandwiches.

"Alice does all the work," laughed Peter. "I just stand here and push buttons."

Pin-up photography needs a woman's touch, Alice said. "A woman wouldn't hesitate to say 'Your stomach is sticking out too much' where a man might keep quiet."

The shooting takes place either on the patio by Gowland's small swimming pool or in the bare studio with plain white brick walls and a large white screen for background. The model stands barefoot on a cold-looking white floor mat.

DIAN Parkinson glances at herself in the tall mirror by the camera, fidgets with the pipe wrench, shakes her flowing blonde hair, wiggles her hips, tummy and breasts into a mouth-watering pose, arches her eyebrows in a "Here is what you've been waiting for" look and — presto: Snap! The moment lives on for a million plumpers.

Sherman, the 18-inch pet turtle, looks on from his white wooden home in the studio.

Dian a North Carolina native is kidded about her cocked eyebrows.

"That's my whole thing," she jokes.

A fresh, light-hearted banter puts the models at ease.

"Peter is very relaxed and his wife is fantastic — it's all very home," says leggy Suzanne Copeland, a tall sophisticated-looking brunette.

The models themselves look sort of homey when they first arrive, hair in curlers so the hairdo will be fresh.

They work for modeling agencies and are paid $66 per hour, $4 of which goes to the agency. Most models do very little pin-up work.

"If you are going to work in this business, you can't just be cheesecake because there just isn't that much cheesecake," Miss Parkinson says.

ONLY a small part of Gowland's business involves pin-up calendars. Many of his photos are sold to magazines. He has done about a dozen Playboy centerfolds and has photographed many models who later became movie stars.

In the mid-1980s Raquel Welch posed for the Rigid Tool calendar and was so pleased with the bikini Gowland provided that she asked if she could keep it.

"I'll always come back if you let me have that suit," she told Gowland.

"So I gave it to her but when I called two months later, she told me she was a movie star now and couldn't come."

Why are pin-up calendar sales dropping off?

One of the first pin-up calendars was "Colette," a portrait painting by Angelo Asti, printed in 1903 by Brown & Bigelow. The idea caught on and other pin-up calendars followed, but it wasn't until 1913 that nude art was used: That was the "September Morn" calendar from the oil painting, "Matinee September," by Paul Chabas.

OTHER pioneering pin-up artists were Rolf Armstrong in the 1920s, George Petty and his Petty Girls of the 1930s and 1940s and Vargas, known for his work in Esquire and Playboy.

$31 million state windfall

SACRAMENTO (AP) — State Controller Houston Flournoy says he has found an extra $31 million in the state's coffers which nobody knew about before.

He said the extra funds were the result of State Department of Mental Hygiene inadvertently reporting twice on $31.3 million in accrued expenditures at the end of the 1972-73 fiscal year last June 30.

Flournoy described the discovery as the mental hygiene funds as "a ray of sunshine at a time of economic pessimism." He said it boosts the year-end surplus for last year to $913.8 million, including $294.8 million in federal revenue sharing funds.

A spokesman for Flournoy said it was impossible to yet calculate the surplus, but that it is diminishing.

Since June 30, the Legislature and Gov. Reagan have enacted legislation providing $721 million in sales and income tax relief benefits and $122 million in new welfare benefits to eat up most of the surplus.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley Friday defended a "counterintelligence" operation the late Director J. Edgar Hoover set up in the late 1960s to "expose" and "neutralize" new left extremist activities.

Kelley said that while the counter moves against the new left activists may be subject to criticism now that "peace" has returned, the government must have some way to "meet the challenge of those who use any means to foment revolution."

"WHILE such a counterintelligence program may not be the answer there must be some effective way for the federal government to meet the challenge..." he said.

Kelley revealed he and Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork have discussed the situation and agreed that a current evaluation of the FBI's reaction to national security emergencies should continue.

CLARENCE M. KELLEY
At News Conference — UPI

"Mr. Bork and I both feel that perhaps additional legislation is required and this is being given thorough study," Kelley said.

The FBI made public Hoover memos about the project Thursday after Bork decided not to appeal a U.S. District Court ruling that NBC newsmen Carl Stern was entitled to see the memos under the 1966 Freedom of Information Act.

One memo issued on May 10, 1968, set up the project called "Gointelpro — New Left" and the other, dated April 28, 1971, terminated the project without explanation. The FBI did not make public any of the information gathered under the project.

Kelley said he wanted to explain Hoover's project further "because of the misconceptions, misapprehensions and false conclusions" that could be drawn from the partial disclosure.

He reviewed incidents of the "atmosphere of lawlessness" — over 300 acts of arson, nine persons killed and almost 600 injured on college campuses and threats to sabotage power and water supplies and to disrupt transportation and communications.

"NOW IN the context of a different era whepeace has returned... some may deplore and condemn the FBI's use of a counter intelligence program," Kelley said.

He said he shared the public's "deep concern about citizens' right to privacy and preservation of all rights gather under the Constitution..." But he said the late 1960s were a time when "a hardcore revolutionary movement which came to be known as the 'new left' set out, in its own words, to bring the government to its knees through the use of force and violence."

* * * GARDENING * * *

Plant Clinic

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Now's the time to face up to the moment of truth... shall some roses be replaced because they have slowed down in floral production? Should gardener dig up a strip of lawn and plant more roses because there isn't any room left in the flower bed.

These two questions must be answered by the gardener or a qualified professional.

New roses are like new cars, they are improved for better performance. Its just as easy to plant "blue ribbon" roses — those that have won Rose selection Awards. That means they have better colors, more fragrance (in many instances), withstand diseases better and have longer stems with longer lasting flowers.

The champions for 1974 are Bahia, a tall growing floribunda with brilliant orange blossoms. Bonbon, (floribunda), on the other hand is a compact bushy plant with masses of brilliant pink and white bicolor blooms, good for general landscaping too, other than in a rose bed. Perfume delight, one of the most fragrant hybrid tea roses, has large pink flowers. Nurserymen will have color pictures of them to show customers, also older varieties, too.

Now's the time to prepare the soil. Most of us prepare holes for the bare root roses. Fewer of us prepare the entire flower bed area.

Whichever is performed, soil must be well watered a day or two in advance to insure easy digging. The individual rose holes for roses should be filled with water, then prepared a day or two later.

Five pounds of bone meal per each 100 square feet, or a slightly lesser amount of a fertilizer containing phosphoric acid and potash should be spread over the rose bed. A 4-inch layer of steer manure or a fine organic top dressing. Gardener should carefully listen to weather reports and not seed in if there's likelihood of rain within the next 10 days.

BON BON... 1974 rose winner

There's a fairly new rye grass that truly is more perennial than the perennial grass available for the past many years. It is Manhattan rye grass.

The horticulture department of West Valley Occupational Center in Woodland Hills have planted it extensively in the school grounds after first testing it out.

A Wholesale seed salesman at a nursery garden clinic diagnosed the orange spots of Manhattan rye grass blades brought in from one of the coastal towns. The stiff narrow blades of grass were attacked by rust.

The seed salesman recommended the owner should mow it year round no higher than three quarters of an inch, and the rust will disappear. Additionally he added, such lawn should be mowed at same lower height even in the desert communities! A professional gardener observed mower must be kept sharp to mow such a hardy blade lawn.

Club Notes

The Bellflower African Violet Society will hold their Christmas party Tuesday at the Bellflower Unified School District's teachers' lounge, Clark and Laurel streets. A pot luck dinner will be served at 6:30 P.M. followed by a gift exchange. Phone 825-0870 for further information.

Mrs. Ruth Kern of North Hollywood will present "Ruth's Holiday Notebook" an arrangement program for the Orange County Floral Arts Guild on Monday at the Santa Ana Women's Club, 6th and Baker streets at 10 a.m. She teaches arranging and is a flower show judge. Mrs. Kern is the past president of Laurel Garden Club and of the Floral Designers Inc. The guild programs are held the second Monday of each month and are of interest to beginners and designers alike. Everyone is welcome and season tickets are still available.

Jobs for gardeners

Families that have children have more fun driving to a Christmas tree farm to select a tree which they can within a day or two of Christmas.

Spring-blooming bulbs need to be kept well watered for long stem blossoms, whether growing in the ground or in pots.

Don't keep dichondra lawn constantly moist. Water only when foot prints pressed down leaves lie flat, then water at least four inches deep. Many dichondra lawns that are kept constantly moist during winter — leafage will turn yellow and finally brown and die. Attack the weeds in a dichondra lawn with a specific pre-emerge herbicide that inhibits, sterilizes. It will kill many small weed seeds but not the broad leaf groups.

on performing under the original contract.

The SBA's Atlanta regional office last month approved the business plan submitted by Brown's consulting firm, B&C Associates, and certified it eligible for business development nonbid contracts, the SBA said.

While Brown was in the White House, the SBA detailed to him Paul A. Laurakas, an SBA minority business development specialist. Soon after Brown quit in February, Laurakas also left government service. He now works for Brown's consulting firm, SBA sources said.

Brown was the highest ranked black in the White House during Nixon's first term. He left in February.

Aide says Gurney had fund data

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — A former aide accused of raising an illegal, unreported slush fund of more than $100,000 for Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., said Friday Gurney and other persons knew about it.

Larry Williams, a central figure in the scandal surrounding the senior Florida senator, was asked about Gurney's Thursday night statement that Gurney didn't know Williams was raising funds for him.

"The senator is wrong and the senator knows he is wrong, and there are others in this city who know better," he said.

"I don't know where their conscience is that they can allow some of these things to go without taking some sort of share in it."

Williams said he thought Gurney skirted the question of how Williams could have used Gurney's name to collect money if Williams was not representing the senator.

"There is no way I could give an image and pose as a free-lance fund raiser and raise that kind of money without people knowing in fact that I worked for Sen. Gurney," Williams said.

"He appeals to the voters of Florida and I think I would say that in the long run that is who will get to decide and that's where it ought to be, and with this, let all the facts come out."

Telescope held up by duty measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The second largest telescope in the world will be set up atop Mauna Kea, Hawaii's highest mountain, when Congress passes a bill authorizing duty-free shipment of the instrument from Canada.

The 3.6 meter optical telescope, when installed, will be exceeded in size only by the one located at Mt. Palomar.

Earmarked by SBA disadvantaged

Ex-Nixon aide awarded pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former $30,000-a-year special assistant to President Nixon has received an $836,651 Defense Department contract earmarked for the disadvantaged.

Robert J. Brown, former special assistant for minority affairs, also applied for a second contract but was turned down.

The contract prompted House Banking Committee investigator Curtis Prins to remark that he didn't think anyone who had worked for a high salary in the White House was disadvantaged.

The Small Business Administration, which negotiated the contract was gone over from stem to stern," said Randall Woods, assistant SBA administrator for public affairs.

"This contract was awarded long after Bob Brown left the White House," Woods added. "There was an unusual amount of documentation. It definitely is legitimate from top to bottom."

Brown could not be reached for comment.

The contract award stems from the program authorizing the SBA to act as subcontractor for the rest of the government in an effort to funnel federal dollars to disadvantaged and minority firms. The SBA certifies firms as eligible for the program and then finds them contracts, which are awarded on a non-competitive basis.

Last July, a firm owned 50 per cent by Brown was awarded a $836,651 Defense Department contract to operate mess halls at El Toro Marine Base in southern California.

The firm, Cade Services Inc. of Santa Ana, is co-owned by Harrison J. Cades.

On Aug. 20, the SBA said, Brown made an "informal inquiry" on behalf of Cade Services to get another Defense Department food services contract at Ft. Lewis in the state of Washington.

This was turned down Sept. 1, Woods said, because "we wanted to see how much success he had

Attorney general pay cut clears House, sent to Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted Friday to lower the attorney general's salary by $25,000 a year, clearing the way for President Nixon to nominate Sen. William B. Saxbe for the job.

There was no immediate indication from the White House when the Saxbe nomination would be sent to the Senate, but Nixon was expected to sign the salary bill quickly.

An aide said the Senate Judiciary Committee would attempt to act on the nomination quickly so Saxbe could be approved before Congress adjourns for Christmas. It could be delayed until the end of January by some committee members who believe that Saxbe cannot legally hold the office.

The salary reduction bill would allow Saxbe to circumvent a constitutional provision prohibiting him for taking an office for which he voted a salary increase during the same congressional term.

Saxbe was in the first year of his current Senate term in 1969 when Congress voted to raise the salary for Cabinet officers from $35,000 to $60,000.

THE SALARY bill, which passed the House without objection, would lower the salary for attorney general back to $35,000 and would provide for a quick court test of the constitutionality of the action.

Opponents argue the Constitution bars Saxbe from taking office and there is nothing Congress can do to change that short of a constitutional amendment.

Supporters argue that lowering the salary would satisfy the spirit, if not the letter, of the clause in the Constitution.

Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution reads: "No senator or representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been increased during such time."

THE SENATE passed the salary reduction bill Nov. 28, but it was delayed by a House-Senate squabble over two unrelated bills — reform of the franking privilege for congressmen and national voter registration by post card.

The House attached the franking privilege to the Saxbe bill this week and sent it back to the Senate. The Senate then removed the franking provision and returned the Saxbe measure to the house.

Saxbe was named by Nixon on Nov. 1 as the person he wants to replace Elliot Richardson, who quit Oct. 20 rather than follow Nixon's orders to fire Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork told Senate committees the White House would not send the nomination to Congress until the salary reduction bill was passed since the nomination might be considered illegal if it were made before Saxbe was made eligible.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

DEC. 10-16, 1973

This week, much rain except in high terrain.

Get your Christmas tree this week... Grandma Moses died Dec. 13, 1961... Last quarter of the Moon Dec. 16... Indiana admitted to Union Dec. 11, 1816... Battle of the Bulge began Dec. 16, 1944... Average length of days for week, 9 hours, 6 minutes... Ohio River Bridge disaster Dec. 15, 1967... First use of laughing gas for tooth extraction Dec. 11, 1844... Boston Tea Party Dec. 16, 1773... Everyone's humming, Christmas is coming.

Ask the Old Farmer: "Thirty days hath September, April, June and November." Was there ever a better known jingle in common use? How ever could we remember the number of days in each month without it? I would like to know who the author was and when he wrote it? A.C. Salem, Oregon.

The jingle appeared in American school books at least a century and a half ago. It is said to have been inspired by the official adoption of the Gregorian calendar by England and America in 1752. Slightly at variance with the Julian calendar, the jingle aided the memory. But who did it? We don't know.

Home Hints: Chewing gum or tar will come off clothing easily if you run an ice cube over them for a couple of minutes... Creases in acetate and rayon woven fabrics will disappear if you run a steam iron on the wrong side of the material.

Corona regains use of only eye

VACAVILLE — Juan Corona has regained the use of his one remaining eye and has seen his wife and four daughters, a prison spokesman at the California Medical Facility here said Friday.

But the 40-year-old farm labor contractor has not yet been asked to confront and identify any of the five inmates being questioned in the attack on Corona, said Timothy Aller, prison program administrator.

Corona, who was convicted last January in the slayings of 25 itinerant workers who were stabbed and hacked to death near Yuba City, was stabbed 32 times in his cell last Saturday night. He lost one eye in the attack and the other was sewed shut to protect damaged tissues, prison officials said.

Aller said Corona was permitted to open his remaining eye Thursday. "He's been reading and writing a little. His family has visited him since then. In general, he continues to show improvement," Aller said.

Aller said criminal charges probably will be filed next week against suspects in the attack. Officials have refused to identify any of the men held in the stabbing.

Prison Supt. T. J. Clanton has said a possible motive for the attack may have been an incident last month in which Corona is reported to have bumped into a homosexual inmate in a corridor and refused to say "excuse me."
